New York Central & Hudson River Railroad.

THE FAVORITE ROUTE TO THE NORTH AND WEST.

THE main line of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad extends from New York City to Buffalo, 440 miles, traversing the eastern and middle portions of the Empire State from the Atlantic Ocean to Lake Erie. It is the only railroad, terminating at the harbor of New York, which reaches the Great Lakes over the territory of a single State, and is the only one having stations on Manhattan Island, or whose rails reach the waters of Long Island Sound. So much has already been said about the peculiarities of the Hudson River Division, that to detail them here would be superfluous. Leaving the Grand Central Station, in the centre of the City of New York, it passes over the most perfect urban tracks in America, crosses the Harlem River on an iron bridge, follows that stream and Spuyten Duyvil Creek, which forms the northern boundary of Manhattan Island, until it reaches the Hudson, where it joins the original tracks, extending along the river's bank to the heart of the business portion of the city, now used for freight trains and for local passenger travel south of Spuyten Duyvil. Having escaped from the boundaries of the metropolis at Yonkers, it hugs closely the eastern shore of the American Rhine — through tunnels, piercing mountains, and over bridges spanning numerous streams — past cities, towns and villages, many of them celebrated over more than one continent — never practically deviating from the dead level of tide flow along its margin, until it crosses the mighty river and enters the capital of the State, 142 miles from its point of departure. In addition to a double track throughout, the Hudson River Division has about 35 miles of third track and 76 miles of sidings. Ferry connections are made at Tarrytown to Nyack; at Garrison's to West Point; at Fishkill to Newburgh; at Rhinebeck to Kingston, and to the Ulster & Delaware Railroad through the Catskills; and at Catskill Station to the village of Catskill, where connections are made with the Catskill Mountain Railroad for the Catskill Mountain resorts. At Dutchess Junction connections are made with the Newburgh, Dutchess & Connecticut Railroad; at Poughkeepsie, with the New York & Massachusetts Railroad; at Rhinebeck, with the Central New England & Western Railroad; at Hudson, with the Hudson and Chatham Branch of the Boston & Albany Railroad; at Albany, with the Boston & Albany Railroad; and at Troy, six miles above Albany, with the Hoosac Tunnel Route into Massachusetts. Connections are also made at Troy with lines to Montreal and Canada; to Saratoga; to the Adirondacks, and through Vermont and New Hampshire, to the White Mountains.

Highlands of the Hudson; View from trains on the New York Central.

At Albany the line turns almost due west, and follows the natural route of communication between the Hudson and Lake Erie. The only heavy grade, and that insignificant when compared with those on other trunk lines, occurs between Albany and Schenectady, where the Mohawk and Hudson found it necessary to commence operations with inclined planes, but this is soon overcome, and the valley of the Mohawk is reached at Schenectady. This beautiful river is followed for 92 miles to near Rome, and there it is deserted for the waters of Oneida Lake, and at Syracuse, 38 miles further, Onondaga Lake is touched. Both of these lakes are drained into Lake Ontario by the Oswego River. Skirting the Seneca River and its tributaries, which drain Seneca, Cayuga, Owasco and Skaneateles Lakes into the Oswego River, the line reaches Rochester, on the Genesee River, near Lake Ontario, 81 miles from Syracuse. The mountain range, which bars the continent from near the Canadian border down to the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, and which is such a serious barrier to every other line of railroad connecting the Atlantic seaboard with the Mississippi Valley, is imperceptibly passed at Little Falls Station, midway between Albany and Syracuse, where the Mohawk flows through a natural break in the chain.

From Rochester the main lines runs direct to Buffalo, 69 miles distant, while a second line runs, by way of Lockport, to Niagara Falls and Suspension Bridge, connecting there with the Canada railroads, and thence to Buffalo. Between Albany and Buffalo there are four tracks on the main line, and most of the branches have double tracks. At Buffalo the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad unites with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, the central link in the Vanderbilt System — which runs through Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, with branches penetrating all portions of Central and Southern Michigan, to Chicago, Illinois. At Cleveland, the Lake Shore line connects with the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway, "Big Four Route," which forms the southwestern extension of the Vanderbilt System, reaching all the cities named, and, by connections, every portion of the Mississippi Valley. At Dunkirk, the Dunkirk, Alleghany Valley & Pittsburg Railroad, one of the lines leased by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, connects with the Lake Shore.

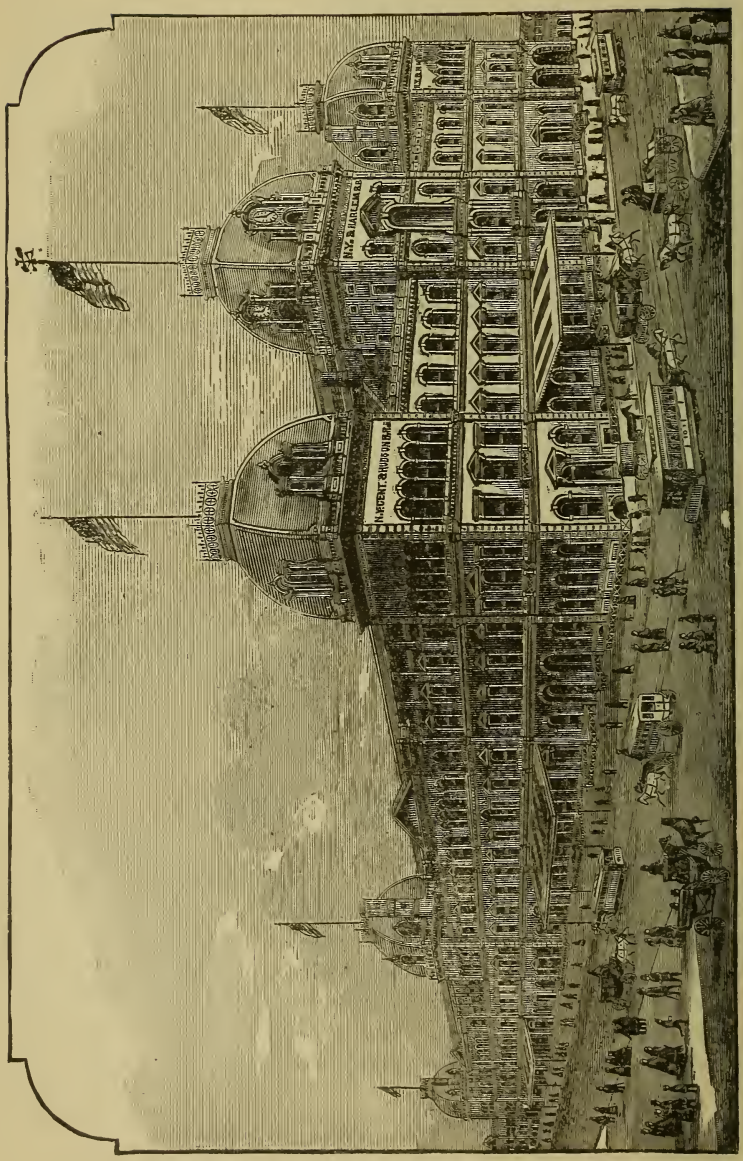

Connection is also made at Buffalo with the Michigan Central Railroad — another link in the Vanderbilt System, which traverses the Dominion of Canada for 226 miles; crosses into the State of Michigan at Detroit; extends northward to the Straits of Mackinac which unite Lakes Huron and Michigan; throws out branches to Toledo, in Ohio, and to most of the important towns in Michigan, and continues on to Chicago and Joliet, in Illinois.

Minor branch lines of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company are intersected between Albany and Buffalo as follows: Geneva to Lyons, connecting the Auburn and the main lines; Rochester to Charlotte, on Lake Ontario; Canandaigua to Buffalo, via Batavia; Rochester to Canandaigua, connecting with the Northern Central Railroad of the Pennsylvania System; Batavia to Attica; Lockport to Tonawanda, and Suspension Bridge to Lewiston, a port on Lake Ontario.

Grand Central Station.

This immense building, almost a city in itself, is so large in all its details and so admirably proportioned that only a careful examination gives an adequate idea of its vastness. Within its walls are contained practically everything that is necessary for the well-being of a large community, except sleeping accommodations, and through its waiting rooms and exits, tens of thousands of travelers pass every day. So perfectly planned for its purpose and so thoroughly built is it, however, that an army of officers and clerks find it one of the quietest and pleasantest working places in New York. Not a sound of the immense traffic reaches the ears of the general officers of the company, though they can step to their windows at any hour of the day, and look down upon trains arriving and departing with crowds of passengers from all parts of the country.

The location of Grand Central Station is, however, its unique advantage. It is quite possible that a station might be planned which in all other respects equalled this building, but there is not in America to-day another such location. Standing, as it does, almost exactly in the centre of the population of the city, with the greater part of the fashionable residence portion above it, and all of the business portion below it, Grand Central Station is exactly the right thing in the right place.

A traveler can arrive in the early morning here, get his breakfast in the restaurant, and then start down-town in a cab, or on the street cars or by the Third Avenue Elevated Railway, without even stepping from under cover. He can reach any probable destination in the city within half an hour, and even on a rainy day without wetting the sole of his shoe. If he arrives, accompanied by ladies, in the afternoon or early evening, to attend an entertainment, he will find any number of carriages awaiting him under the big awnings, and will be at his entertainment in from five to twenty minutes. If his final destination is New England, he can change cars without leaving the station, or can reach almost any part of Brooklyn by a transfer over the Brooklyn Bridge and by the Brooklyn elevated railroads, without even descending to the sidewalk.

The most remarkable and fortunate fact concerning this station is that it is not only in exactly the ideal spot for a railroad station in New York City, but it is also the only station on Manhattan Island. If there were twenty stations, none could have a better location ; but there are no others.

A few details concerning the building will naturally be of interest.

Grand Central Station, which is the New York City passenger terminus of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, is situated at Fourth Avenue and Forty-second Street, the very centre of the city.

It contains the general offices of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, The New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. and the New York & Harlem R. R., with their hundreds of employees. The financial offices of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern R'y, Michigan Central R. R., Canada Southern R. R., and several other companies are also located in this building, as well as the offices of the Westcott Express Company and the New York Transfer Company. The Western Union Telegraph Company and Wagner Palace Car Company also have offices in the building.

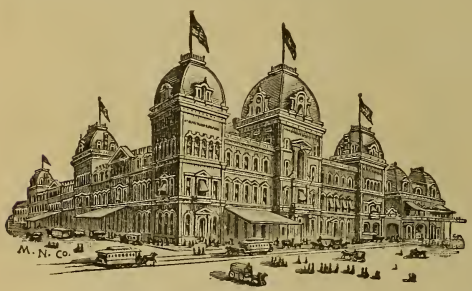

In the basement, there is, at the north end, the station of the 23d Sub-Precinct of the Police Department of New York, and on the Forty-second Street front a large restaurant.

Directly opposite Grand Central Station are the general offices of the West Shore Railroad and the Wagner Palace Car Company.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad makes connection at Grand Central Station with all trains on the New York, New Haven & Hartford and New York & Harlem Railroads, and from the east side of the Annex, and under the same cover, the cars of the Third Avenue Elevated Railway start, making connection for the extreme southern part of the city and Brooklyn, as well as the northern portion of the city. The cars of the Fourth Avenue surface railroad leave from the Annex, and run down Fourth Avenue through the Bowery to City Hall and the Post Office. The Forty-second Street surface line passes in front of the Station, and crosses every north and south line of surface as well as of elevated railroads. The Boulevard cars also pass in front of Grand Central Station on Forty-second Street, running west to Seventh Avenue, and thence north to the end of the Boulevard. The Madison Avenue cars also pass in front on Forty-second Street, and run north on Madison Avenue to Mott Haven Station. Another line of cars leaves in front of the Station for the 34th Street and 23d Street ferries on the East Side, and crosses to the steam-ship docks and Hoboken and Jersey City ferries on the West Side.

Grand Central Station has a frontage of 374 feet on 42d Street, and a depth of 688 feet on Vanderbilt Avenue, embracing a superficies of 257,312 square feet.

Grand Central Station, New York.

It is estimated that on an average 50,000 persons per day arrive at and depart from this station. During every working day an average of 245 trains (about 800 cars) arrive at and leave the station. The Station contains 19 tracks, of which 12 are devoted to outgoing and 7 to incoming trains.

New Up-Town Station.

For the accommodation of up-town residents, the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad maintains a handsome and perfectly appointed passenger station at 138th Street, New York, at which all fast express trains, excepting the New York and Chicago Limited, now stop.

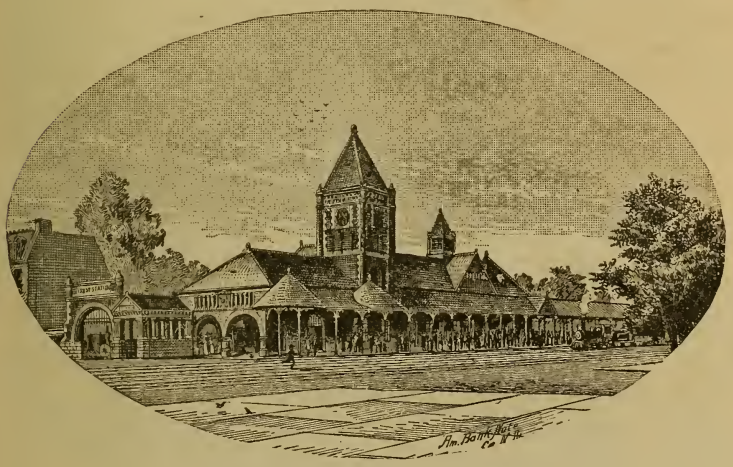

Tickets reading to New York by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad or the Harlem Railroad, will be available on all trains either to the Grand Central Station or to the 138th Street Station as preferred if presented on trains scheduled to stop at the latter stations.

The Madison Avenue street-cars run into the station enclosure at 138th Street, and this station is also easily accessible by taking street-cars on Third Avenue to the corner of 138th Street. Carriages will be at the up-town station upon arrival of all trains.

The building occupies about one acre of land, and is unquestionably the finest Way Station on the continent.

The accompanying illustration gives a very inadequate idea of its handsome exterior of brick and terra cotta and red Akron tile roofs.

From 138th Street there are four separate entrances, viz.: for passengers, through a loggia; for carriages, through a large and imposing archway; for the Madison Avenue street-cars, and one for baggage wagons— each department distinct, but all merging into a capacious vestibule, opening from which are the waiting-room, ticket and telegraph offices, and a door to the baggage-room.

New Up-Town Station, 138th Street, New York.

The waiting-room is about 100 feet long by 30 feet wide, two stories high, with opened timbered roof ornamented with carving and wrought iron work artistically fashioned; cathedral glass windows; heated by steam and well ventilated. Immediately off this waiting-room, and separated by a high screen of open carved work, is a restaurant.

EASY CURVES AND LIGHT GRADES.

There is a feeling of great fatigue upon the completion of a journey in the most luxurious cars over the very best constructed railway, if that railway does not possess easy curves and light grades. The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad occupies the natural easy-grade highway between the shores of the Atlantic and the entire West, skirting along the world-famed Hudson River and passing through the lovely valley of the Mohawk.

The New York Central's four distinct and complete tracks upon this natural highway is a noble compensation for the tardiness of inventive genius in providing the improved system of transport by steam and rail that now spreads like the meshes of one vast net over every civilized country on the face of the globe.

The Dining Cars.

The Dining Cars in service on the Limited as well as other fast express trains, by the New York Central route, have an enviable reputation for their excellent cuisine.

Breakfasts, luncheons and dinners are served from menus representing all the substantials and delicacies of the season at the uniform price of one dollar each.

Dining thus upon a smoothly speeding train at one's leisure is infinitely preferable to the haste and discomfort incident to the old-fashioned "twenty-minutes-for-dinner" meal station system. It is a matter of constant remark by those accustomed to patronize the dining car system of the "Central," that the service excels in every point that of many well-known restaurants of the metropolis, where prices largely in excess of the dining car tariff would be charged for the same table d'hote.

WAGNER PALACE CAR CO.

The drawing-room and sleeping car service on the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad and its immediate connections is operated by the Wagner Palace Car Company which has been entirely reorganized within a few years past.

The new sleeping cars now in regular service on the Limited and other fast express trains on the New York Central route were built by the Wagner Palace Car Company, the controlling idea in construction being to secure absolute comfort to the occupants of the cars, and no expense has been spared to attain that end. In elegance of finish and luxurious appointments, the new sleeping cars are unsurpassed.

Old travelers know that the New York Central, for a distance of over three hundred miles, is possessed of four distinct tracks, two of which are exclusively devoted to the movement of passenger trains and two to freight traffic. The regular and safe movement of fast trains under such favorable conditions can be generally depended upon.

ADVANTAGES OF THE FOUR TRACKS.

The New York and Chicago Limited and the Saratoga Limited by the New York Central are distinguished as the fastest trains run in America, and as making the longest-distance runs yet attempted by trains in regular service. These trains run between New York and Albany, a distance of 142 miles, without a stop, the water supplied being scooped from track tanks while running at full speed — a device originally introduced into this country by the New York Central.

CARS HEATED BY STEAM.

All the drawing-room and dining cars, passenger coaches, and the baggage, mail, express, and postal cars in service on the line of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad are equipped with the necessary appliances for steam heating under the system introduced by the Martin Anti-Fire Car Heater Company. Live steam is taken directly from the boilers of the locomotives and no fires for heating purposes in any of the coaches will be permitted. The announcement of the Steam Heating Company will be found on page 200.

CARS LIGHTED WITH GAS.

The Pintsch system for lighting passenger cars with gas has become justly celebrated and is now recognized as the safest and most satisfactory method of car illumination ever produced. This clean, brilliant and beautiful light has been introduced into the coaches of the Wagner Palace Car Company, and into those of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad and other Vanderbilt lines. In cars lighted with Pintsch gas passengers can read their books and papers with the same degree of comfort as in their drawing rooms at home. See page 210.

THE WESTCOTT EXPRESS CO.

Messengers of the Westcott Express Company are on all arriving trains to arrange for the delivery of passengers and baggage to any part of New York City or Brooklyn, or to the Ocean or Sound Steamship wharves in New York, Hoboken, Jersey City or Brooklyn. Delivery of New York baggage made from either the 138th Street Station or the Grand Central Station, according to the convenience of passengers.

The Westcott Express Company is also authorized to check baggage from hotels or residences in New York City or Brooklyn to destination. Orders will be received at any ticket office of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad in New York or Brooklyn. The baggage delivery of the Westcott Express Company enjoys a good reputation for prompt and efficient service.

CHECKING OF BAGGAGE.

One hundred and fifty pounds of baggage will be checked free on each full-rate regular or summer excursion ticket, and seventy-five pounds on each half-rate ticket. In selling tickets and checking baggage over other lines this company acts only as agent, and assumes no responsibility in connection with tickets or baggage beyond the terminus of its own road.

To ensure the forwarding of baggage on same trains by which passage is taken, passengers should be at the station at least ten minutes before advertised time for departure of trains, as it is necessary to present your passage ticket to station baggage-masters when baggage is checked.

STATION RESTAURANTS.

The restaurants along the New York Central at Poughkeepsie, Albany, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, conducted by Johnson Bros., are among the finest and best managed railway restaurants in the East. Moderate charges only are authorized, and price-lists are posted for the information of the public.

EXPRESS MATTER.

The American Express Company is in charge of the express facilities on the New York Central. Parcels or shipments of any kind requiring despatch to any part of the world will receive prompt attention if forwarded by American Express. The company's agents are at all stations. The principal offices of the American Express Company in New York City, are at 40 Hudson Street, 302 Canal Street, 696 Broadway, 3 East 14th Street, 940 Broadway, 45th Street, opposite Grand Central Station, and 407 Madison Avenue.

THE WORLD-FAMED HUDSON.

NEW YORK TO ALBANY.

THE tourist, whose point of departure is the Grand Central Station, in the City of New York, possesses advantages which are unequalled in this country, and, probably, in the world. No matter what the motive of his journey may be — whether he be in search of health, recreation, social enjoyment, or all combined, he is able from this point to carry out his plans at a minimum expenditure of time, trouble and money. The most powerful engines, the most handsomely equipped and comfortably appointed coaches, the most solid of road-beds, and the most thoroughly organized system of railway transportation, insuring at once speed, safety and comfort, are at his disposal. Nor can he from any other point find such easy access to so great an aggregate of varied attractions. Does he long for the combined beauties of hill and dale, mountain and stream? He finds them all at the very outset of his journey, as he is borne along the banks of the world-famed Hudson. Does he find a peaceful enjoyment in the silence of pathless forests, or in floating upon the bosom of placid lakes? If so, the wilds of Northern New York will fill the cup of his desire to overflowing. Is he charmed by the majestic grandeur of lofty mountains and deep gorges? Let him hasten to the Adirondacks or the Catskill Mountains. Is he a disciple of Nimrod or Izaak Walton? The north woods and the St. Lawrence will give him a joyful greeting. Does he seek social intercourse and renewed vigor, or is he an invalid in quest of restored health amid peaceful and attractive surroundings? Saratoga, Richfield, and Sharon throw wide their portals and bid him enter. Each and all of these famed resorts, and many others almost equally delightful, can be reached in a marvelously short time, without fatigue, by the tourist who seeks the comforts and luxuries which have been provided for his use by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company.

When the traveler has comfortably ensconced himself in the palatial coach from which he need not emerge until his destination is reached, he has nothing to do but enjoy to the fullest extent his luxurious surroundings. A shout of "All Aboard!" from the conductor, and a moment later the long train is gliding out of the magnificent station to the measured rhythm of the engine's bell. It creeps slowly along the steel pathway which is guiding it from the heart of the busy, feverish metropolis to the cool woods and green fields of which those whom it is bearing away from the city's noise and hurry are so earnestly longing. Soon the iron steed crosses the shallow but sparkling Harlem, and then follows its course until its waters mingle with those of the majestic Hudson. Quicker and quicker becomes the breathing of the engine; faster and faster grows the easy, gliding motion of the train, as it rolls past the steep, rocky hillsides on the right, while the threatening battlements of the Palisades rise in bold relief against the sky on the further bank of the noble river. For twenty miles these natural ramparts guard the western shore, rising to a height of three hundred feet and effectually estopping the traveler from a view of the country beyond. Past field and wood, past hill and dale teeming with historic memories dating from Aboriginal, Colonial, and Revolutionary days, the train is swiftly whirled. The wooded hills upon the right are thickly dotted with the magnificent summer homes of the social and commercial magnates of the metropolis.

RIVERDALE.

A moment after leaving Spuyten Duyvil Creek we pass the little town of Riverdale, one of the handsomest suburbs of New York, containing many elegant residences.

MT. ST. VINCENT.

A little further on is Mount St. Vincent, where is located an extensive Roman Catholic convent school for girls, famous for the excellence of its educational system. The large gray stone castle at Mount St. Vincent was formerly the residence of Edwin Forrest, the tragedian, but now belongs to the convent, having been sold by him to the Sisters of Charity, under whose management St. Vincent is conducted.

Becalmed on the Hudson.

About two miles above Mount St. Vincent, seventeen miles from New York, is Yonkers, beautifully situated on villa-crowned slopes at the mouth of the Nepperhan or Saw Mill River. It has a population of about 30,000, and contains several fine churches, excellent hotels and many elegant residences. It has gas, water-works, and a police department, the latter being connected by telegraph with police head-quarters in New York City. Many important manufacturing establishments are located here, among them being mower and reaper works, silk, carpet, and hat factories, machine and elevator works, and the shops of the Eagle Pencil Company. Yonkers is an ancient settlement, and was the home of Mary Phillipse, the first love of George Washington. The manor of Colendock, comprising 2,400 acres, and in colonial days the property of Patroon Van der Donck, was the original site of this flourishing city.

YONKERS.

Hastings, most romantically situated, is a thriving village of about 1,800 population. Proximity to New York and frequent train service renders it peculiarly desirable as a suburban residence. A number of tasteful dwellings lately completed and in process of building, are offered at reasonable rentals. The elegant residences of many wealthy New Yorkers can be seen nestling among the trees that crown the hills, and afford a beautiful view of the river and the surrounding country.

HASTINGS.

Dobb's Ferry (Greenburgh), two miles beyond, is a pleasant village lying along the river slope, at the mouth of the Wisquaqua Creek. It is also the suburban home of a large number of New York business men, and like all places within easy distance of New York, is rapidly taking on the aspect of metropolitan life.

DOBB'S FERRY.

Four miles above Dobb's Ferry is the village of Irvington, named in honor of Washington Irving, whose gifted pen has immortalized many of the neighboring localities, among them the far-famed "Sleepy Hollow" and "Wolfert's Roost." "Sunnyside" cottage, renowned as the home of Irving, is close by, near the margin of the river, almost hidden from view by the dense growth of the surrounding trees and shrubbery. A flourishing ivy vine, which half conceals the east end of the house, is the product of slips planted by Irving, which he secured from Sir Walter Scott on the occasion of his visit to Abbottsford. Lyndehurst, the old Paulding Manor, now the property of Jay Gould, is perhaps the most conspicuous of the many fine residences in the vicinity of Irvington.

IRVINGTON.

Just above, twenty-nine miles from New York, is Tarrytown, delightfully situated on an elevated plateau overlooking the wide expanse of the Tappan Zee and the surrounding country for many miles. Revolutionary memories also cluster thickly hereabouts, and it was at Tarrytown that Major André was captured and the treachery of Benedict Arnold exposed. Had the traitorous plans of the brave but faithless American been carried to a successful issue, the whole succeeding history of our country would doubtless have been materially changed.

NYACK.

Nyack, a thriving and beautiful town, is located on the western bank of the Hudson, opposite Tarrytown, with which village it is connected by a ferry.

SING SING.

Sing Sing, a handsome little city of 10,000 inhabitants, has a national reputation as being the abiding-place of many of New York's citizens who for a time have retired into an unwilling seclusion. The train dashes by the cold gray walls of the prison, and we almost imagine we can hear the clank of chains and the shuffling of feet. The town itself is very beautiful, many elegant residences rising on the long upward slope from the river and having a magnificent view. The Croton aqueduct passes through Sing Sing and is carried over a ravine by a stone arch 70 feet in height and having a span of 88 feet. Across the river is Haverstraw Bay, into which the gallant explorer Hendrick Hudson sailed centuries ago, and finding no outlet, thought he had arrived at the head waters of the "Shattemuc," as the Indian termed the Hudson. His mistake was afterwards emulated by Peek, a bold Dutch adventurer, who, having discovered another tributary to the river, thought it the main stream. His name and memory are perpetuated by the village of Peekskill.

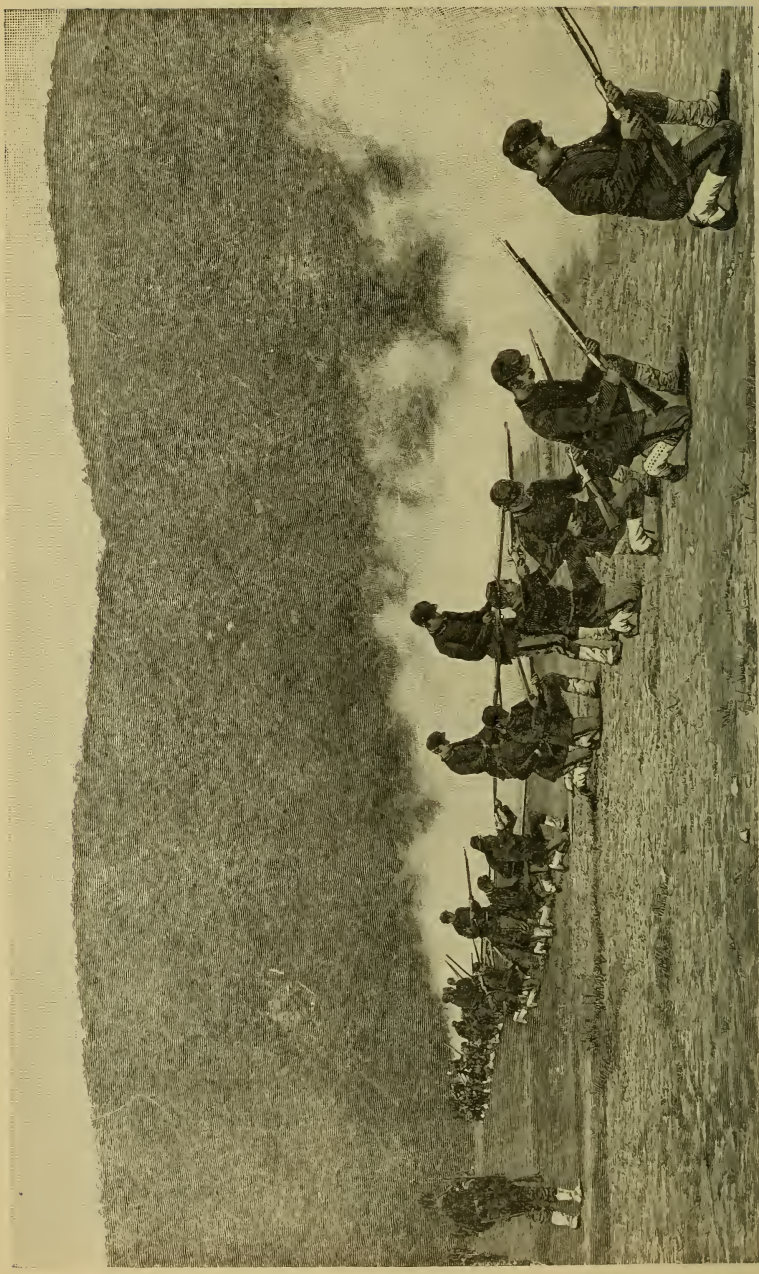

Continuing the journey, Croton Station, Cortlandt, and Montrose, popular suburban places with many handsome villa residences, are passed in quick succession, and the traveler is at the gates of the romantically beautiful region known as the Hudson Highlands.

PEEKSKILL.

One of the prettiest towns on the Hudson, situated at the mouth of the Peek's Kill or Annsville Creek, is Peekskill, a bustling and thriving place of about 7,000 inhabitants. Its history dates back to a period anterior to the Revolutionary War, and in those trying times it played an important part. On the old Van Cortlandt farm, two miles north of the town, yet stands the house in which, for a time, General Washington had his head-quarters, and just beyond can be seen the church in which he worshiped. Many Revolutionary heroes are buried in the surrounding churchyard. Leaving Peekskill the train has fully entered the Highlands, and beautiful views abound.

GARRISONS.

Passing Highlands Station it stops at Garrisons, a charming spot of historic renown, and one of the popular summer resorts in the vicinity of New York. Its principal hotels are the Highland House and the Croft House.

From "OUTING." A Skirmish Line. Copyrighted.

At Garrisons connection is made by ferry with West Point, the site of the United States Military Academy and of a fortress erected during the War of Independence. The site commands one of the finest river passes in the world, and the academy is located upon a plateau 180 feet above the river. It was established in 1802. The fort and a chain stretched across the river by the patriots were captured by the British in 1777, but were abandoned after Burgoyne's surrender. Stronger works were then erected by the Continental forces, and these Arnold bargained to betray to the enemy, but his scheme was foiled by the capture of Andrè.

WEST POINT.

West Point is located in the very bosom of the Highlands, and is their chief attraction. It is a bulwark of the nation in more senses than one, and a favorite resort with summer pleasure-seekers.

The vicinity abounds in delightful walks and drives, and within easy access are the ruins of Forts Montgomery and Clinton on opposite sides of Popoloken Creek. Near by, too, is Bloody Pond, which the simple country folk still believe to be guarded by the ghosts of Hessian soldiers, while Sugar Loaf and Anthony's Nose raise their lofty crests in the background. An object of much interest to visitors is an old furnace used during the Revolution for casting cannon and other warlike material for the patriot army.

Many are the pleasant memories and lasting associations connected with West Point, the Military Academy, and the neighboring hills and valleys, which have re-echoed to the strains of "Benny Havens, Oh!" issuing from the throats of generation after generation of buoyant and gallant cadets, many of whom have since achieved world-wide distinction, and these historical and social surroundings make West Point and its vicinity an oasis in the wilderness of the Highlands.

Three miles above Garrisons is Cold Spring, a picturesque village with a resident population of about three thousand, which number is largely augmented during the summer months by the influx of city visitors.

COLD SPRING.

"Undercliffe," the home of George P. Morris, the poet, stands on a plateau north of Cold Spring, and the celebrated cannon foundry of R. P. Parrott, the inventor of the Parrott gun, is also near.

The next stop, a mile beyond, is Cornwall Station, which connects by ferry with Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, the principal summer resort on the river. There are several large hotels and numerous summer boarding houses here, the whole section being largely given over during the season to summer boarders.

CORNWALL STATION.

Near Cornwall the placid Moodna empties its waters into the river. This poetic stream formerly bore the name of "Murderer's Creek," and owes the gratifying change in its appellation to the appreciative nature of the late N. P. Willis, whose home, "Idlewild," stands upon its western bank, nigh to the spot where it mingles with the Hudson. Nigh to Cornwall, also, rise the steep sides of Storm King and Dunderberg, with Cro' Nest and Bear Hill nestling between them.

Dutchess and Columbia Junction is the connecting point with the Newburgh, Dutchess & Connecticut Railway.

FISHKILL.

Fishkill is a thriving village in Dutchess County, surrounded by fine scenery and containing many handsome residences. The Verplanck House, two miles northeast of the landing is interesting as having once been the head-quarters of Baron Steuben, of Revolutionary fame. Connection is made here by ferry with Newburgh, which is located upon the western bank of the river. The latter town contains about 25,000 inhabitants, and has several large manufacturing enterprises. Hendrick Hudson was so much impressed with this locality that in 1609 he wrote of it as follows: "It is as beautiful a land as one can tread upon; a very pleasant place to build a town on." Newburgh was the scene of many interesting events during the Revolutionary War, and Washington's head-quarters, an old gray stone mansion south of the town, is still preserved under the ownership of the State.

Poughkeepsie.

Gliding past Low Point, New Hamburg, and Milton Ferry, the train thunders into the depot at Poughkeepsie, 75 miles from New York. This is the largest city between New York and Albany, and contains a population of about 25,000. It is an important trade centre, and includes several large manufacturing establishments within its limits, among which are the large Buckeye Mower and Reaper Works of Adriance, Platt & Co., the works of the Poughkeepsie Glass Company, which has one of the largest melting furnaces in the country, the rolling mill of the Phœnix Horseshoe Company, and several large shoe factories and knitting mills. Poughkeepsie is also noted for its educational institutions, foremost among which is Vassar College, for young ladies, which is situated about two miles east of the station, and is reached by horse-cars. The main building, modeled after the Tuilleries, is 500 feet long and five stories in height. The college has several hundred students, and is celebrated for its thorough educational facilities.

POUGHKEEPSIE.

Prominent among the features of Poughkeepsie must be mentioned the great bridge spanning the Hudson at this point. In magnitude, boldness of design or beauty of shape and situation, it is not surpassed by any other completed bridge in the world.

Five miles above Poughkeepsie is Hyde Park, an attractive village containing numerous summer boarding-houses. In the vicinity are several ancient and extensive country seats, including "Placentia," the former home of James K. Paulding, one of the pioneers of American literature.

HYDE PARK.

The village of Staatsburgh is next passed, and a few miles beyond is Rhinebeck, a favorite summer resort, noted for its excellent hotels and boarding houses. It has steam ferry connection with Rondout and Kingston, nearly opposite. The two latter towns are now incorporated as one and known as Kingston. Connection is made with the Ulster & Delaware Railroad for Catskill Mountain resorts.

RHINEBECK.

Kingston is the capital of Ulster County, and has a population of more than 20,000. It was incorporated as a city in 1872, and is a bustling, pushing town. It has a front of four miles on the Hudson. Beautiful scenery abounds in the vicinity, and there are many pleasant and romantic drives in the neighboring country. It is also the terminus of the Ulster & Delaware and the Walkill Valley railroads.

Passing by the stations of Barrytown, Tivoli, Germantown and Linlithgo, the traveler next reaches Catskill Station, 111 miles from New York, which connects by steam ferry with Catskill proper, the capital of Greene County. This is the landing-place for thousands of tourists who annually visit the Catskill Mountains lying a few miles to the west.

CATSKILL STATION.

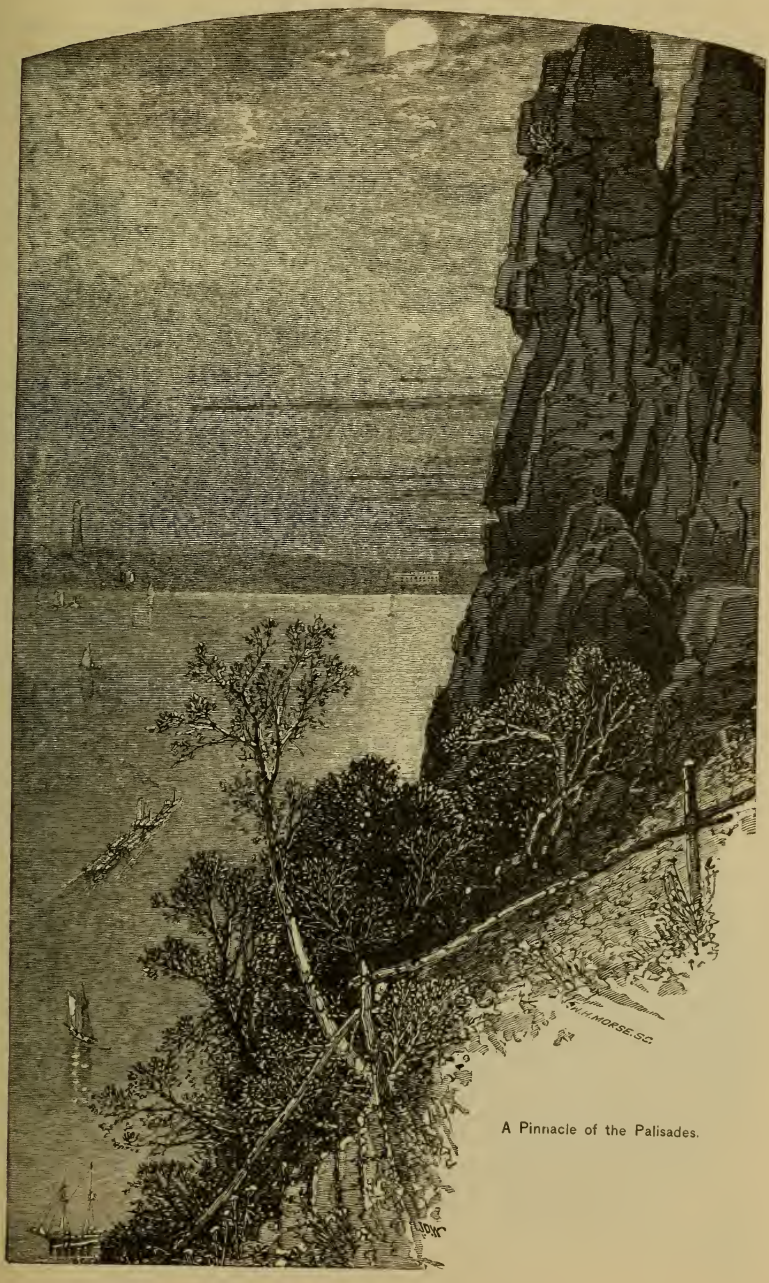

HUDSON.

Hudson, finely situated upon a bold, rocky promontory at the head of the ship navigation on the river, is one of the oldest cities in the State, having been incorporated in 1785, and has about 15,000 inhabitants. In years gone by it had a large amount of shipping engaged in foreign trade and the whale fisheries. It is now chiefly engaged in the manufacture of iron and the export of agricultural staples. At this point connection is made with the Boston & Albany Railroad.

The quaint old village of Claverack, in Columbia County, is located four miles inland from Hudson, and is a historic place. In the present era, however, its chief claim to distinction lies in the fact that it contains within its limits the celebrated "Claverack College, and Hudson River Institute," a prosperous and well-conducted school for both sexes, which has attained a national reputation. The handsome and substantial college buildings, surrounded by beautiful and well-shaded lawns, and commanding most charming views of the romantic scenery in which the neighborhood abounds, are the features of the village. The old Dutch Church, with its staring date of 1767 on its western side, shines out in old-fashioned red among the towering oaks that keep ward over it and its adjoining cemetery. On an opposite crest is "Fairview," the stately mansion built by the late Dr. Flack, who was the founder of the college, and its president for more than thirty years. Down the village street are the residences of the decendants of the Muhlers, the Ostranders, and the Van Rensselaers, and in a quaint old yellow-brick dormer-windowed house are to be seen the lares and penates of Gen. James Watson, and other distinguished — Webbs. The "Spook Rock," in a shady swirl of the Claverack Creek, is visited on moonlight nights by the neighboring swains and their sweethearts, who linger to see it turn in its shiny bed when it hears the Institute bell.

EAST ALBANY.

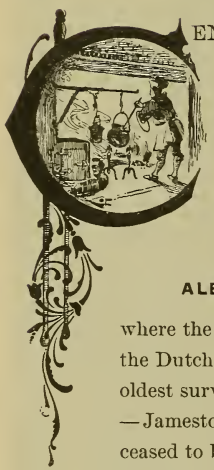

Resuming the journey, the hamlets of Stockport, Coxsackie, Stuyvesant, Schodack, and Castleton are quickly passed, and the train rolls into the station at East Albany. This is the point of separation for those traveling still further north and those westward bound, the former continuing on to Troy and other northern points, while the latter are borne across the stupendous bridge over the Hudson, which forms the connecting link between East Albany and Albany.

A Pinnacle of the Palisades.

THE BEAUTIFUL MOHAWK VALLEY.

FROM ALBANY TO UTICA.

CENTRAL and Western New York abounds in varied and beautiful scenery. Smiling valleys, wooded hills, sparkling rivers, and dimpled lakes are seen on every hand as the traveler is carried swiftly past the enchanting and ever-changing landscapes.

ALBANY.

Albany, one of the most flourishing cities in the East and the capital of New York State, is situated on three hills on the west bank of the Hudson, six miles below the head of tide-water, and at the point where the Erie and Champlain Canals join the river. Founded by the Dutch as a trading-post in 1614, and called Fort Orange, it is the oldest surviving European settlement in the thirteen original States — Jamestown, Va., founded seven years earlier (in 1607), having long ceased to be inhabited, only the ruins of a church tower and a few tombstones remaining to mark the spot. In 1644 its present name was given it, in honor of the Duke of York and Albany (afterwards James II.). It was chartered in 1686, and became the State capital in 1797. Owing to its commanding position at the head of navigation on the river, Albany is most advantageously situated for commerce, and is the chief emporium for the transit trade of the coast towns with those of the North and Northwest. It is also the centre in which a number of railways meet, connecting it with the East by the Boston & Albany and the Fitchburg Railroads ; with the North and Canada by the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's Railroad ; with the West and South by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad ; with the Southwest by the Albany & Susquehanna Railroad. It has water communication with the North by the Champlain Canal ; with the West by the Erie Canal, and with the South by the Hudson River. There are two bridges over the Hudson, built by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad. Tourists from the North, East, and South, bound for Sharon Springs, Cooperstown, and Otsego Lake, can quickly reach their destination by taking the Albany and Susquehanna Division of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's Railroad. Of the public buildings the New Capitol, recently built, is a very large and imposing edifice, covering more than three acres of ground, and is one of the finest and most expensive buildings in the State.

SCHENECTADY.

Schenectady, a city of about 22,000 inhabitants, situated on the right bank of the Mohawk River, on a spot which once formed the council-ground of the Mohawks, was founded in 1661 by Arent Van Corlear. It is the seat of Union College, one of the oldest educational institutions in the country, many of whose graduates have attained prominence in National and State affairs. There are also extensive iron and locomotive works and car shops here, employing several hundred men. The burning of Schenectady and the massacre of its inhabitants, which took place February 9, 1690, was one of the tragic events which marked the early struggles of European nations for supremacy on this continent. The invaders were Frenchmen and Indians from Montreal, under the command of Lieut. Le Moyne de St. Helene, who passed down to the Mohawk by way of Lake Champlain and the trails branching southward from the head of that lake. The march was made on snow-shoes and was one of the most notable undertakings in the early history of border warfare. Success depended on surprising the town at night and preventing any adequate defence. The surprise was complete, and only sixty, old people and children, were spared. Connection is here made with the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's Railroad for Balston and Saratoga.

AMSTERDAM.

Crossing the iron bridge that spans the Mohawk River at this point, the tourist is borne rapidly through a delightful section, and soon arrives at Amsterdam, an enterprising and prosperous city of over 20,000 inhabitants. It has many large factories, and is located in the midst of romantic scenery.

FONDA.

Fonda is the county seat of Montgomery County, and a bustling village. Johnstown and Gloversville, two thriving towns with a world-wide reputation for their glove and mitten manufactories, are connected with the main line at this point by the Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville Railroad.

FORT PLAIN.

Still speeding through the fertile and beautiful valley of the Mohawk, and passing the villages of Palatine Bridge and Canajoharie, the latter of which is noted for its fine stone quarries, the train comes to a halt at Fort Plain, which boasts of numerous manufactories, two silk factories being included in the number, as well as the largest spring and axle works in the world. Old Fort Plain of Revolutionary memory is two miles from the village.

LITTLE FALLS.

Seven miles west, St. Johnsville, a prosperous manufacturing town on the banks of the Mohawk, is passed, and a further ride of ten miles brings the traveler to the busy town of Little Falls, having a population of about 8,000. The town is romantically situated, and many elegant dwellings stand upon steep acclivities, commanding views of grand and attractive scenery. The town contains numerous manufactories, abundant water-power being supplied by the Mohawk River, which at this point has a fall of forty-five feet in half a mile.

HERKIMER.

Herkimer is the county seat of Herkimer County. It is principally noted for its production of cheese, butter and broom-corn. Here connection is made with the Herkimer, Newport & Poland Railroad to Newport and Poland.

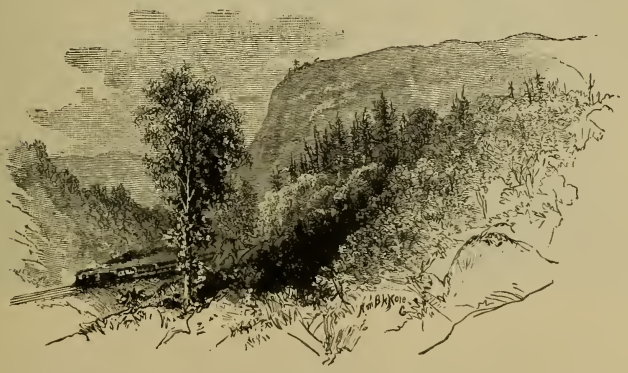

ILION.

Ilion numbers among its industries the large factories of the Remington Company, producing fire-arms, sewing machines and agricultural implements. It has a population of between four and five thousand.

UTICA.

Speeding through a beautiful region for twelve miles, the train glides through the suburbs of a city, and soon draws up in the station at Utica, the county seat of Oneida County, and containing a population of about 40,000. At the time of the Revolution, Utica was a frontier trading post and the site of Fort Schuyler, built to guard the settlement against the French and Indians. The city is regularly and handsomely built, rises from the south bank of the Mohawk River to an elevation of 150 feet. Among its buildings are six large hotels, cotton mills, woolen mills, and a State lunatic asylum. Utica, being in the centre of a great dairy region, has become the most important cheese market in the United States. It is also the centre of an important railway and canal system.

At this point connection is made by means of the Black River Division of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad, with Trenton Falls, Lyon's Falls, the North Woods, and the Thousand Islands, and with Richfield Springs, Norwich, and Binghamton by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad.

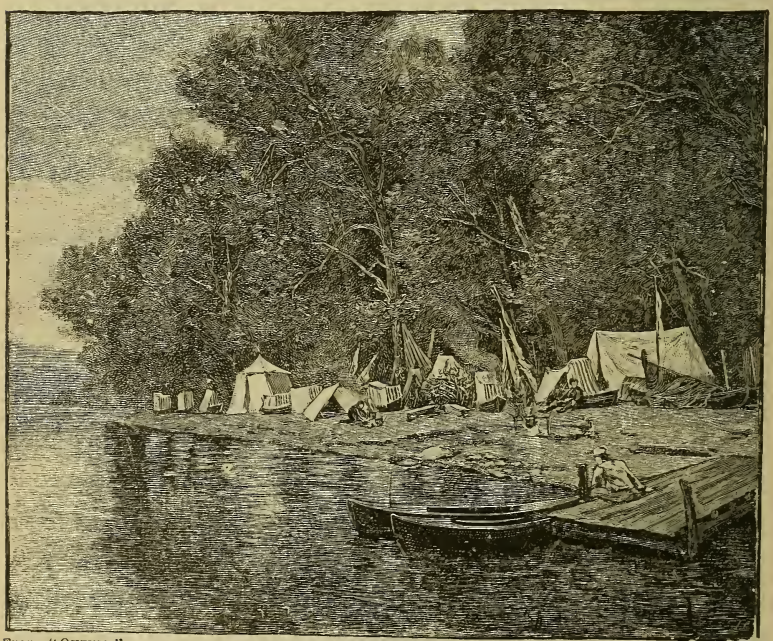

The Lake Region of New York State.

THE DIRECT ROAD, UTICA TO ROCHESTER.

Resuming his journey over the New York Central at Utica, the tourist enters the far-famed lake region, and traverses for a distance of over 130 miles the fairest portion of New York State. Passing through the hamlets of Whitesboro and Oriskany, after fourteen miles, the train arrives at Rome, a thriving city of 18,000 inhabitants. This is the junction of the New York Central, the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg, and the New York, Ontario & Western Railroads. The Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg route is a favorite one with tourists to the Thousand Islands, Montreal, Quebec, and other points lying upon or adjacent to the St. Lawrence River. Fort Stanwix, which was besieged by the British in 1777, occupied a site which is now in the centre of the city of Rome, and the battle of Oriskany was Leaving Rome, the hamlets of Green's Corners and Verona are passed, and the train halts at Oneida, a thriving town in Madison County, and the junction of the New York Central and the New York, Ontario & Western railroads. The town has a population of about 8,000, and is the centre of a flourishing country trade.

Passing the station at Wampsville, the village of Canastota is reached. Connection is here made for Oneida Lake, Cazenovia, Cortland, Ithaca, and Elmira by the Elmira, Cortland & Northern Railroad.

CHITTENANGO.

After passing the hamlet of Canaseraga, the train arrives at Chittenango, a village with a population of about 1,000. One mile south of the village are the Chittenango Springs, in the deep and narrow valley through which the Chittenango Creek discharges the waters of Cazenovia Lake into Oneida Lake.

SYRACUSE.

Leaving Chittenango the train dashes past Kirkville and Manlius, and is soon wending its way through the suburbs of the enterprising and prosperous city of Syracuse, which is located at the head of Onondaga Lake and at the junction of the New York Central & Hudson River, Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railways. Situated in the heart of New York State, it has been appropriately named the "Central City." The wonderful growth of Syracuse for the past twenty years entitles it to rank amongst the foremost cities of the East. It has a population of nearly one hundred thousand, and is one of the leading manufacturing towns of the country. For a long period Syracuse practically controlled the salt product of the United States; in fact, it was that which first gave the place its importance. The existence of the vast and important salt springs of Onondaga was known to the Indians at an early date, and was by them imparted to the Jesuits in 1654. In 1794 the State took possession of the springs, and laws were passed for the conduct of the manufacture. Although a score of companies are now engaged in this industry, it constitutes a comparatively small factor in the commercial interests of the city, there being at the present time over five hundred industrial establishments there, giving employment to not less than twenty thousand people. The manufactories of Syracuse comprise Bessemer steel works, rolling mills, hardware specialties, cutlery, fruit canneries, breweries, and mower and reaper works. The chemical works of the Solvay Process Company, the largest establishment of its kind in the country, are also located here. The city is handsomely laid out, and contains many handsome public buildings and private residences. From Syracuse, west, there are two routes to Rochester. Through passengers take the main line; but travelers destined to Auburn, Geneva, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen, Canandaigua, and other points on or connecting with the Auburn Branch, change cars.

As the train draws out from Syracuse to continue its journey on the direct line, the passenger has an excellent view of the innumerable salt sheds that line the shore of the lake, and sees on every hand evidences of the enterprise and thrift which have made this city what it is. The stations of Amboy, Warners, Memphis, Jordan, Weedsport, Port Byron, Savannah, and Clyde succeed each other rapidly, and then a halt is made at

LYONS.

Lyons, the county seat of Wayne County, which produces more dried fruit than any other county in the State. This town is tastefully laid out, and is nearly midway between Syracuse and Rochester. It has a population of about 5,000. The manufacture of the oil of peppermint is an important industry, there being a score of peppermint distilleries producing annually more than 100,000 pounds of this costly oil. Lyons is the junction point of the New York Central and the Fall Brook Coal Company's Railroad. Connection is made here for Geneva, Seneca Lake, Watkins Glen, and points in Northern Pennsylvania.

NEWARK.

The next station is Newark, a thriving town, numbering about 2,500 inhabitants, where connection is made with the Sodus Bay Division of the Northern Central Railroad.

PALMYRA.

Palmyra, seven miles beyond, has a population of over 3,000. Its streets are broad and handsomely shaded. Two miles south of Palmyra, Joe Smith, the founder of Mormonism, claimed to have dug from a hill, which now bears the name of Mormon Hill, the golden plates from which the first Mormon Bible was printed.

ROCHESTER.

Passing the villages of Macedon and Fairport, the train soon rolls into the station at Rochester. This important city is situated on the Genesee River, seven miles south of its entrance into Lake Ontario. It is one of the leading manufacturing cities of the country, and has a population of nearly 150,000. It was founded in 1802, by Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, a representative pioneer of the Genesee country, received its charter as a city in 1834, and has since increased in population and importance with marvelous rapidity. The splendid water power furnished by the Genesee River, together with unexcelled transportation facilities and the fertility of the surrounding country, has contributed very largely to its growth. The city covers an area of about seventeen square miles, and is laid out chiefly in squares, with streets from 60 to 100 feet wide, shaded by beautiful trees. It abounds in handsome and tasteful residences, which are for the most part surrounded by carefully tended lawns and gardens ; its magnificent fire-proof office buildings and warehouses are a credit to the city and equalled by few, even in the metropolis.

In the centre of the city are the upper Falls of the Genesee, a perpendicular cataract of ninety-six feet, over which Sam Patch made his last and fatal leap ; two other falls of eighty-four and twenty-five feet respectively, are a mile and a half below, the river running through a deep gorge in its limestone banks from one hundred to two hundred and twenty feet high.

Among the prominent public institutions of the city are the State Industrial School, two large Hospitals, Institution for Deaf Mutes, and charitable organizations of every description. The principal business thoroughfare, Main Street, is in the centre of the city, and crosses the river over a handsome iron bridge.

The manufactures of Rochester are extensive and varied. In earlier years, flour was the chief product, giving it the title of the "Flour City," and although now dwarfed by other industries, it is still of great importance, there being no less than eighteen mills in the city. The nursery trade of Rochester is not surpassed by that of any other place in the world ; the suburbs are highly cultivated, having four thousand acres of fruit trees and nurseries of two hundred and fifty to five hundred acres. Other important industries are cotton and paper mills, breweries, oil refineries, boot and shoe, clothing, furniture, perfumery, and tobacco manufactories. More clothing is manufactured in Rochester than in any other city in the United States.

A prominent feature of the city, attracting thousands of visitors daily, is the great Powers Art Gallery. It is the private property of Mr. D. W. Powers, and occupies the greater part of the two upper floors of the Powers Building.

A plentitude of resources is afforded the tourist at this delightful city.

ONTARIO BEACH.

He, or she, can take the main line to Buffalo, or the Niagara Falls Division to the country's greatest wonder, or the Charlotte Branch which connects the main road with the charming Ontario Beach, one of the most popular summer resorts of Western New York, and less than ten miles distant. Here the Ontario Beach Improvement Company have erected a model summer hotel (The "Hotel Ontario"), and have spared neither time nor expense in adding to the number and variety of its attractions. Good fishing and hunting are plentiful, and bathing, boating and driving, interspersed with the social attractions which the hotel affords, can not fail to make the traveler's stay an agreeable one.

Connection is made at Rochester for Le Roy, Warsaw, Machias, and Salamanca, by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad ; also to Charlotte, by branch of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad ; passengers for Brockport, Albion, Medina, Lockport, Suspension Bridge, and Niagara Falls, are carried over the Niagara Falls Division ; those for Buffalo, Cleveland, and the West, continue on the main line.

The Auburn Road.

AT SYRACUSE, by leaving the direct line and taking what is known as the Auburn Branch, the traveler can reach Rochester just as easily, and at the same time be enabled to view the beauties of placid Seneca Lake, and the far-famed Watkins Glen, with but little loss of time.

After leaving Syracuse, a number of minor stations are first passed, and in eighteen miles the train reaches Skaneateles Junction, where passengers for Skaneateles Village and Lake change cars. Skaneateles Lake is one of the most charming bodies of water in Central New York. It is sixteen miles long, with an average width of one mile, and set amid imposing hills, rising 1,200 feet above its surface. Its waters are cool and clear, and well supplied with trout and other fish. The Village of Skaneateles is situated at the northern end of the lake, and has many visitors in summer. About ten miles southeast of Skaneateles is picturesque little Otisco Lake, enclosed by lofty hills.

SKANEATELES JUNCTION.

Leaving Skaneateles Junction, the train passes the station of Sennett, and a few moments later enters the station at Auburn, a handsome city of about 30,000 inhabitants, situated near Owasco Lake, whose outlet flows through the city, furnishing a water power which neither rains nor drought materially affect. It is employed in mills of various kinds, and in manufactures of wool, cotton, carpets, paper and agricultural implements. Within sight of the station is located one of the largest prisons in the State ; covering 18 acres of ground, enclosed by a wall 3,000 feet long, and from twelve to thirty-five feet high.

AUBURN.

Auburn was for many years the home of the late William H. Seward, whose grave is in the cemetery on Fort Hill.

Connection is here made with the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Owasco Lake, three miles south of Auburn, a further description of which will be found on page 114, is a popular resort, much frequented by summer visitors.

The hamlet of Aurelius is next passed, and then, after crossing a bridge nearly a mile in length, the train reaches Cayuga, located on the beautiful lake of the same name. Connection is made with Aurora and Ithaca by rail, and steamers also ply upon the lake between Cayuga and Ithaca. The latter town is the seat of Cornell University, and is noted for its charming natural surroundings.

CAYUGA.

SENECA FALLS.

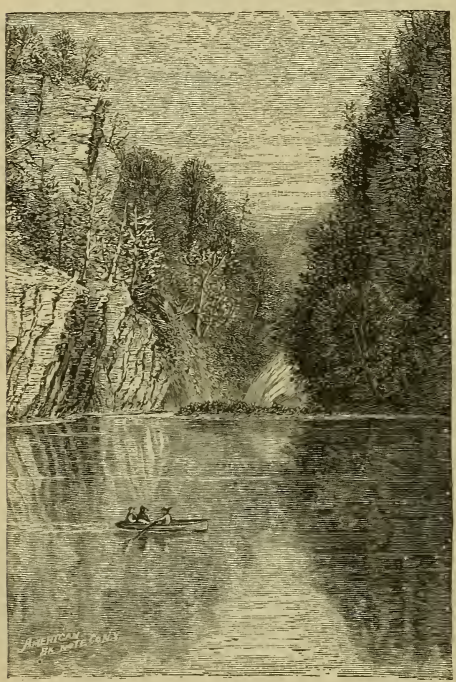

Seneca Falls is a bustling and prosperous manufacturing town with a population of over 6,000. It is in Seneca County, and lies on the banks of the Seneca River.

WATERLOO.

A short ride from Seneca Falls, through a fertile farming district, and we come to Waterloo, which has a population of about 5,000. The village has wide streets, shaded by grand old trees, and is a delightful place of residence. It has several important manufactories, including knitting mills, and shawl and carpet factories.

GENEVA.

Fifteen miles west of Cayuga Bridge, crossing the reedy foot of Cayuga Lake, the west-bound train over the Auburn Branch sweeps around the gravel-bordered extreme of Seneca Lake and comes to a stop at the station of Geneva. The town of Geneva is one of the most attractive communities in the interior of the Empire State. It enjoys a large local trade, the stores being ranged chiefly along the wide main street beside the lake and upon several bi-secting streets, the many handsome homes of its citizens occupying higher ground looking out upon the lake further to the south. Two very excellent hotels, the Kirkwood and Franklin, compete for the patronage of travel. Hobart College, one of the most influential and substantial of our educational institutions, occupies a very advantageous site fronting upon the lake.

Ithaca Gorge.

At Geneva connection is made with the Fall Brook Coal Company's system of railroads reaching Watkins Glen, Penn Yan, Corning and Williamsport, and in summer, steamers run three times daily from Geneva to Watkins at the southern end of the lake. Connection is also made with the Lehigh Valley Railroad for Ithaca.

CLIFTON SPRINGS.

Passing the stations of Oaks Corners and Phelps, twelve miles from Geneva, are the Clifton Springs, one of the most frequented resorts on the line of the road. The waters are sulphurous in character, and are very efficacious in the treatment of bilious and cutaneous diseases. The Clifton Springs Sanitarium is a noted retreat for invalids and convalescents.

Continuing our journey, and passing the hamlets of Shortsville and Chapinville, the train stops at the beautiful town of Canandaigua, situated in Ontario County, at the northern extremity of Canandaigua Lake. The town has about 6,000 inhabitants, and is celebrated for its picturesque scenery and the elegance of its private residences. The Indian name, Canandaigua, means "the chosen spot." The lake that bears the name of the town is sixteen miles long, one mile wide, 668 feet above tide-water, and 437 feet above Lake Ontario, into which it is emptied by the Clyde and Seneca Rivers. At Canandaigua passengers for Elmira and the south take the Northern Central Railway.

CANANDAIGUA.

A ride of twenty-eight miles through a fertile section of country, during which the hamlets of Farmington, Mertensia and Victor are passed, brings the traveler to Rochester, where we again unite with the main line.

A few miles from Rochester is the pleasant and picturesque village of Charlotte, situated near the shore of Lake Ontario, at the mouth of the Genesee River. A branch of the New York Central connects Rochester with Ontario Beach (see page 40), just below Charlotte, and during the summer season trains run back and forth at hourly intervals.

CHARLOTTE.

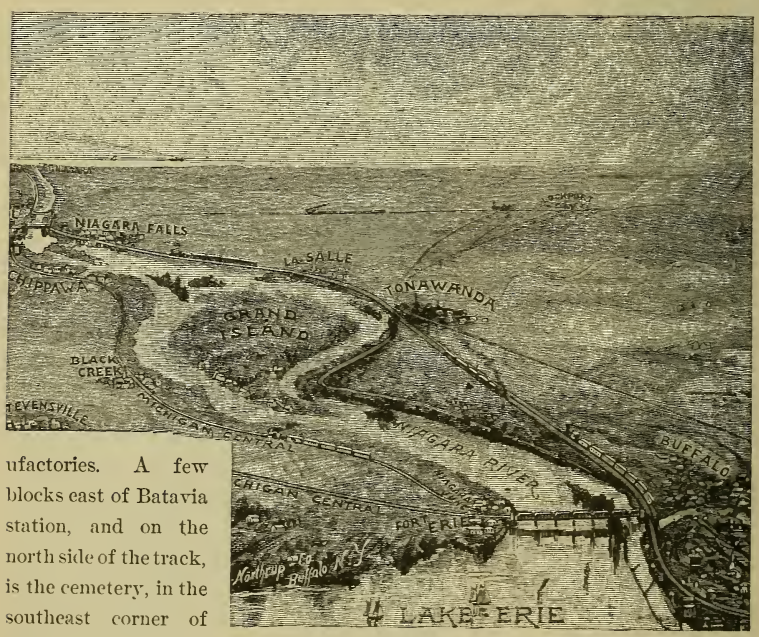

Rochester to Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

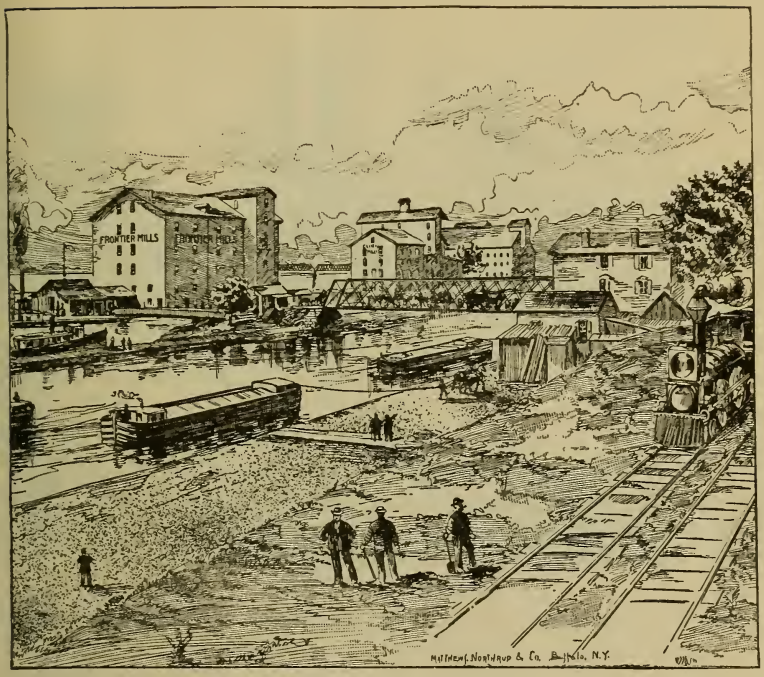

NIAGARA FALLS may be reached from Rochester either via Buffalo and the main line, or via Lockport and the Falls Division. The former route we will consider first.

BATAVIA.

The distance from Rochester to Buffalo, by the main line, is sixty-nine miles. Passing in succession the villages of Coldwater, Chili, Churchville, Bergen and Byron, we reach Batavia, which is delightfully situated in one of the richest and most fertile sections of the State. It is a town of about 8,000 inhabitants, and is noted for its broad and handsome streets, beautiful shade trees and pleasant drives. Here is located the State Institution for the Blind, a ladies' seminary, a library, and several manufactories. A few blocks east of Batavia station, and on the north side of the track, is the cemetery, in the southeast corner of which, and in plain view from the trains of the New York Central, stands the monument, erected in 1882, by the anti-Masons, in memory of William Morgan. It is a beautiful shaft of Vermont granite, forty feet in height, surmounted by a full length statue. Connection is made at Batavia for all points on the Canandaigua, Batavia and Tonawanda Branch, also the Batavia and Attica Branch.

When Batavia is left in the distance, the train, after a run of thirty-five miles through a fertile farming region dotted with hamlets and villages, enters the station in the large and thriving city of Buffalo, which contains a population of more than 260,000, and is the third city in size in the State of New York. It is located at the mouth of Buffalo River, at the eastern end of Lake Erie, and the head of Niagara River, and possesses the largest and finest harbor on the lake. The city has a water front of about five miles, extending two and one-half miles along the shore of the lake and two and one-half miles along Niagara River. The unrivalled position of Buffalo at the foot of the great chain of lakes, and at the terminus of several important railway systems, gives it great commercial importance, and it is to this, more than to anything else, that the city is indebted for her prosperity.

BUFFALO.

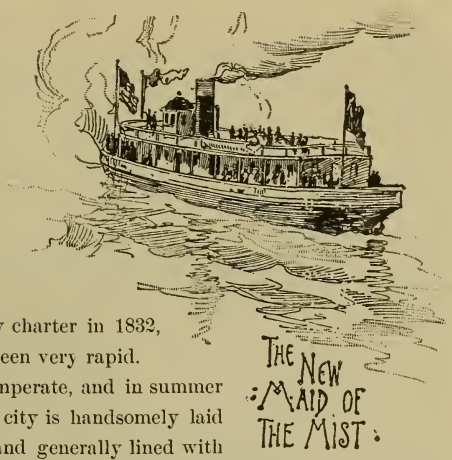

The principal manufactures of Buffalo comprise starch, soap, lumber, copper, brass, tin and iron ware, etc. The grain, cattle, lumber, coal, iron and milling interests have also developed rapidly. Natural gas is much in use, both as an illuminant and in manufactories.

Buffalo was first settled by the Dutch in 1801; it became an important military post during the War of 1812, and was burned by a combined force of British and Indians in 1814. It was granted a city charter in 1832, and since then its growth has been very rapid.

The climate of Buffalo is temperate, and in summer it is especially pleasant. The city is handsomely laid out, and the streets are broad and generally lined with trees, and are well paved, lighted and sewered; 63 miles are paved with asphalt (more than any other city in the world) and 120 miles paved with stone. It contains many fine residences with attractive grounds, and numerous handsome public squares. The city possesses a superb system of parks and pleasure grounds, designed and laid out by Frederick Law Olmsted, the architect of Central Park in New York City. It comprises three sections, situated respectively in the northern, western and eastern parts of the city, which, with the connecting boulevard, afford a drive of nearly ten miles. The principal thoroughfares are Main Street, about two miles in length, Niagara Street, four miles, and Delaware Street, three miles. The six public squares are named Niagara, Lafayette, Franklin, Johnsons, Prospect and the Terrace.

The prominent public buildings are the City and County Hall, a magnificent granite structure fronting on Franklin Street, completed in 1880 at a cost of nearly $1,500,000; it is built in the form of a double Roman cross, with a tower 245 feet high; the United States Custom House and Post-office, at the corner of Washington and Seneca Streets; the Board of Trade Building, in Seneca Street; the Buffalo Library, on Lafayette Square; the State Arsenal, in Broadway; the Erie County Penitentiary, one of the six penal establishments of New York; the General Hospital, in High Street, and the State Asylum for the Insane, an edifice which cost about $3,000,000; it is located in Forest Avenue, adjoining the Buffalo Park. The city also possesses several handsome churches and theatres.

Connection is made at Buffalo with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and the Michigan Central Railroads for Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and the West. A journey of twenty-two miles over the Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Suspension Bridge and Lewiston Branch is all that is necessary to reach the greatest cataract of the world, and America's most famous natural wonder.

Doing the Cave of the Winds.

The trip over the Falls Division, or the direct route from Rochester to Niagara, is also made through a charming section.

BROCKFORT.

Seventeen miles west of Rochester the delightful village of Brockport is reached. It is beautifully situated in the midst of a country teeming with abundant harvests, and inhabited by a prosperous and contented population. It contains many features of interest. Here is located a State Normal school and several extensive manufactories of agricultural implements.

ALBION.

Still proceeding westward, we come to Albion, the capital of Orleans County. This village is attractively laid out with wide streets, shaded by large trees, and contains many handsome residences, several churches, a female seminary, banks, newspapers, etc

MEDINA.

Moving onward, the train halts at Medina, a pleasant town of 5,000 inhabitants, noted for its quarries of dark-red sandstone Located in the midst of a fine fruit country, it has the reputation of being one of the best fruit markets in the State.

LOCKPORT.

After leaving this town the stations of Middleport and Gasport are passed, and the next stop is at Lockport, a beautiful and prosperous city of 20,000 inhabitants. At this point the railroad crosses the Erie Canal by a bridge five hundred feet long and sixty feet in height. The canal falls sixty feet in a short distance, and has five combined double locks. Its surplus water is distributed through a hydraulic canal three fourths of a mile long to the various manufactories of the city, which comprise the works of the Holly Manufacturing Company, the Westerman Rolling Mill, the Indurated Fibre Company, the Cascade Wood-pulp Mill, and many others. This immense water power is the chief source of the city's prosperity, affording it unexcelled facilities for manufactories of every kind. The railroad company has recently completed a handsome new passenger station at this place.

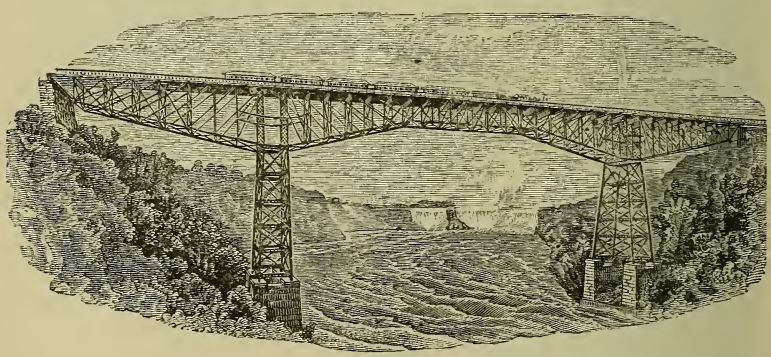

View from Prospect Point, Niagara Falls

Eleven miles beyond Lockport is the hamlet of Sanborn, and then Suspension Bridge looms in sight. This village is a port of entry on the Niagara River, nearly opposite the lower rapids, two miles below the cataract, at a junction of the New York Central Railroad with the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, which crosses the river on a suspension bridge more than eight hundred feet long and two hundred and fifty feet above the water. The railway bridge is eighteen feet above the bridge used for carriages and foot passengers.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE.

Three hundred feet above the old Suspension Bridge, and in full view of the falls of Niagara, is located the great Cantilever Bridge, built by the Michigan Central Railroad, and completed in November, 1883, forming the connecting link between the New York Central and Michigan Central Railroads.

This remarkable structure is recognized as the greatest triumph of modern engineering, and has attracted in a greater degree, perhaps, than almost any work of the century, the attention of the scientific world, and brought interested visitors to the spot from all quarters of the globe.

The principle of the Cantilever Bridge is that of a trussed beam, supported at or near its centre, with the arms extending each way, and one end anchored or counterweighted, to provide for unequal loading. Each end is made up of a section entirely of steel, extending from the shore nearly half way over the chasm. Each section is supported near its centre by a strong steel tower, from which extend two lever arms, one reaching the rocky bluffs, the other projecting over the river 175 feet beyond the towers. The outer arm having no support, and being subject, like the other, to the weight of trains, a counter advantage is given by the shore arm being firmly anchored to the rocks on the shore. The towers on either side rise from the water's edge; between them a clear span of 495 feet over the river, the longest double-track truss-span in the world. The ends of the cantilevers reaching on each side 395 feet from the abutments, leave a gap of 120 feet filled by an ordinary truss bridge hung from the ends of the cantilevers. Provision is made for expansion and contraction by an ingenious arrangement between the ends of the truss bridge and of the cantilevers, allowing the ends to move freely as the temperature changes, but at the same time preserving perfect rigidity against side pressure from the wind. From the tower foundations up the whole bridge is steel, every inch of which was subjected to the most rigid tests from the time it left the ore to the time it entered the structure. The total length of the bridge is 910 feet.

NIAGARA FALLS.

Four hundred and forty-seven miles from New York is Niagara Falls, the most inspiring natural wonder known to man. The Niagara River, extending from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario, a distance of thirty miles, has a total fall of three hundred and thirty-four feet; the greater part of the descent being confined within a distance of seven or eight miles. The rapids are so strong two miles above the falls as to entirely prevent navigation. There are three distinct cataracts. The Horseshoe Fall, so called from its crescent shape, is by far the largest, and is in the direct course of the river; it is two thousand feet wide and one hundred and fifty-four feet high. The American Fall is six hundred and sixty feet wide, and the Central Fall two hundred and forty-three feet, each having a fall of one hundred and sixty-three feet. The New York Central has recently completed a handsome and perfectly appointed passenger station at Niagara Falls, to replace the one destroyed by fire some months ago. A more detailed description of Niagara, its glory and majesty, will be found on page 101.

or arm of the sea through a tunnel, knowing little of the wonders that had surrounded him. It is a peculiar region ; for though the geographical centre of the wilderness may be readily and easily reached in the light, canoe-like boats of the guides, by lakes and rivers which form a labyrinth of passages for boats, the core, or rather cores of this wilderness, extend on either hand from these broad avenues of water, and, in their interior, spots remain to-day as untrodden by man, and as unknown and wild as when the Indian paddled his birchen boat upon those streams and lakes.

The healthfulness of this enchanting section has become proverbial. The pure mountain air, fragrant with the balmy odors of cedar and spruce, the cool, sparkling water, bubbling from a thousand hidden springs, the freshness and charm of nature, unsullied by the art of man, are here offered as a free gift to anyone who will enjoy them. Truly, here is the fountain of perennial youth ! Many who have tasted its joys can bear glad testimony to the benefits derived from a temporary sojourn in this wilderness. Constitutions enfeebled by too close application to the common affairs of every-day life, and brains exhausted by excessive mental work, are here speedily restored to health and vigor. Pulmonary complaints are greatly relieved by the soothing properties of the balsamic air.

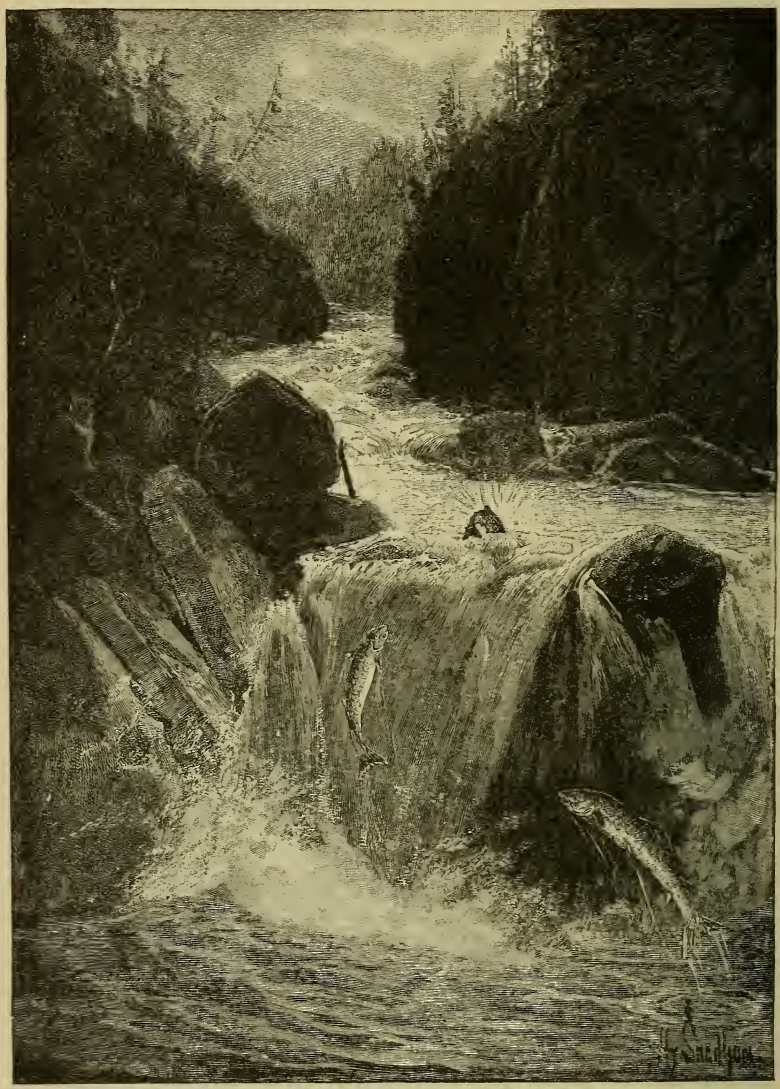

The scenery in the Adirondack region is wonderfully varied. In the valleys between the mountains lie many beautiful lakes and ponds, more than one thousand in number. The general level of these lakes is about 1500 feet above the sea, but Avalanche Lake, the highest of them, has nearly twice that elevation. Some of them are twenty miles in length, while others cover only a few acres. The largest of these lakes are Long Lake, Blue Mountain Lake, the Saranacs, Tupper, the Fulton Lakes, and Lakes Placid, Loon, Oalden, Henderson, Sanford, Eckford, Raquette, Forked, Newcomb and Pleasant.

PATHWAYS INTO THE ADIRONDACKS.

Only within a few years the Adirondack Railway, a standard gauge route, which extends northward from Saratoga sixty miles to North Creek, has come into prominence as a means of speedily reaching many points in the most picturesque and retired portions of the wilderness hitherto practically beyond the range of the general tourist and the invalid.

Through sleeping car service is maintained from New York to the northern terminus of this railway, over the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, and the Adirondack Railway at Saratoga, thus forming a through unbroken route, and enabling passengers destined for Blue Mountain Lake and beyond to reach that beautiful sheet by tally-ho at noon the day following the evening of departure.

At Hadley passengers leave the train for Luzerne, half a mile distant, which will be remembered by many for its delicious trout dinners. Lake Luzerne is a small but exceedingly picturesque body of water suggestive of Switzerland's famed resort. The principal hotels are Rockwell's and the Wayside.

A tally-ho line of stages meets the north-bound trains over this road at Riverside, connecting that point with Pottersville at the foot of Schroon Lake, a distance of seven miles. The small but handsome steamer "Effingham" completes the journey to Schroon Lake Village at the further extreme of the lake where several extensive hotels are located.

Blue Mountain Lake, which is reached by tally-ho from North Creek, the terminus of the Adirondack Railway, is one of the most beautiful of the magnificent system of lakes and streams for which this region is famous. It is oval in shape, with an extreme diameter of about three miles, and lies at an elevation of about 2,000 feet above the sea. It has three hotels ; the first one reached being Holland's Lake House, recently rebuilt and thoroughly refurnished. The Blue Mountain House stands upon a lofty site upon the flanks of the mountain ; at this house the rates for board are exceptionally low. The Prospect House, which is one of the largest and finest hotels in the entire Adirondack region, occupies a fine location near the shore of the lake, and is the centre of a large and fashionable clientage of tourist travel.

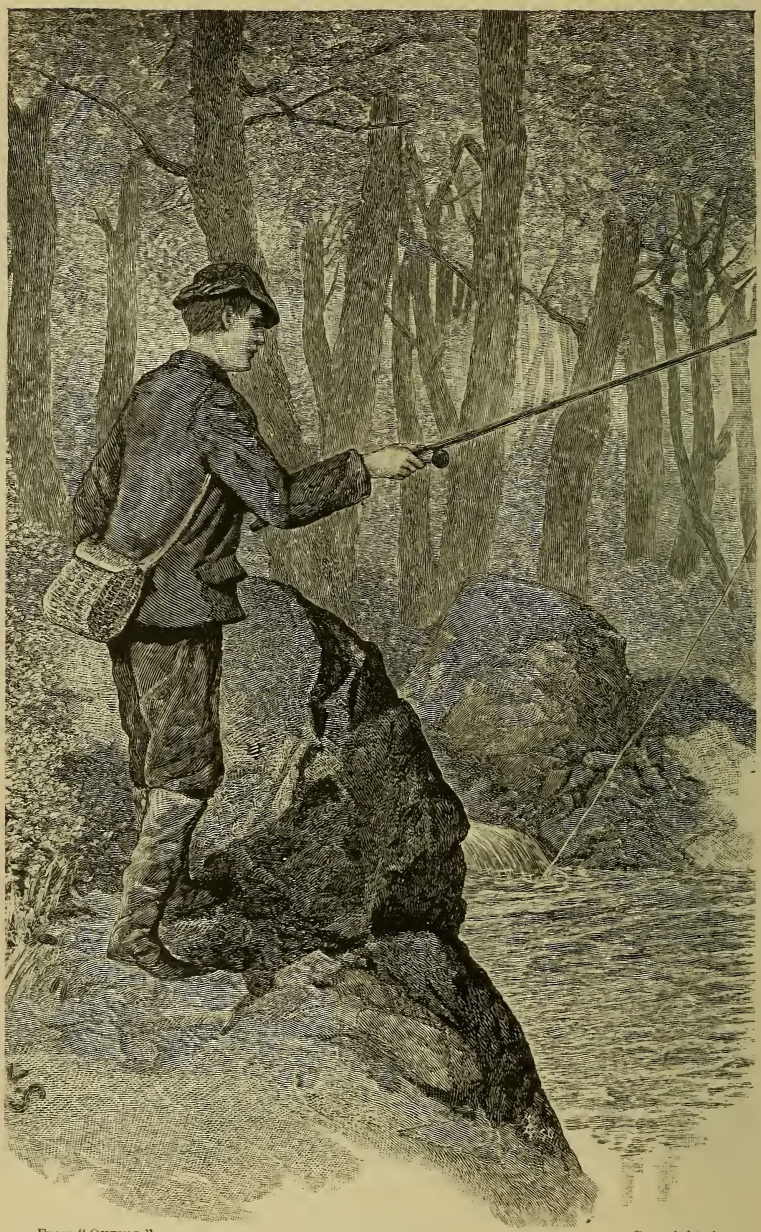

The Blue Mountain & Raquette Lake Steamboat Line performs double daily service during the summer between the two lakes, passing through Eagle and Utowana Lakes, and down the pretty Marion River, the two boats of the line being connected by a "carry," which is a novel and acceptable diversion with excursionists who make the voyage. This forms a memorable single day's trip from Blue Mountain Lake, opportunity being given to see the handsome "camps" or artistic log villas for which Raquette Lake is famed, and also to get a good dinner at either of the small but excellent wildwood hotels upon the lake.

Forked Lake is connected with Raquette by a half mile carry. Guides leading parties down the Raquette River to Long Lake and the Tupper Lakes, pass through Forked Lake en route. A more direct route to Long Lake is by stage from Blue Mountain Lake to the village of Long Lake, from which it is but a short ride in a skiff to the large Sagamore Hotel.

Adirondack Village, Indian Pass and Mt. Marcy are also reached by this route, besides Smith's Lake, Moose Lake, Lake Sanford, Lake Colden, Lake Henderson, the sources of the Hudson, and Fulton Chain Lakes.

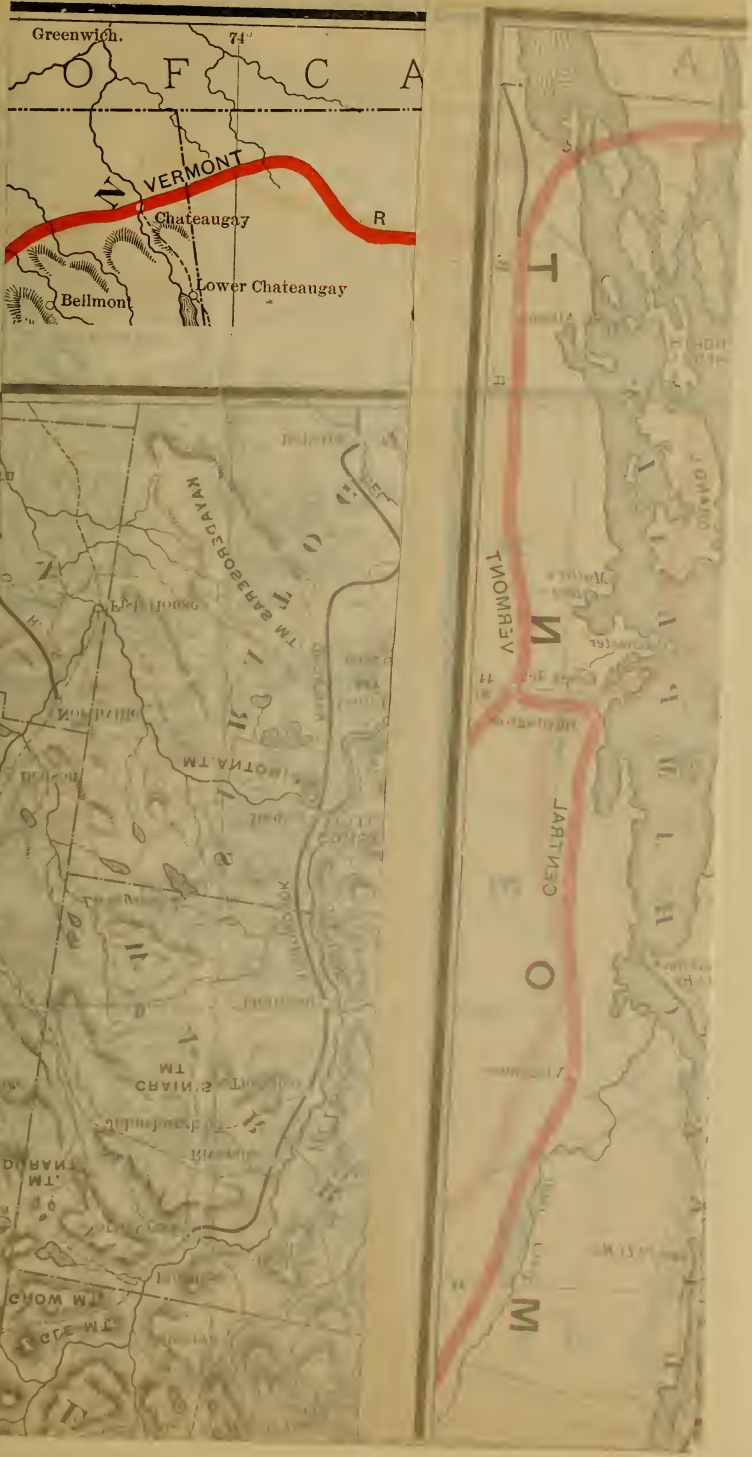

For Chateaugay Lake, Loon Lake, Rainbow Lake, Paul Smith's, Lake Placid, the Saranac and Tupper Lakes a favorite route is over the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad to Troy, thence by the Delaware & Hudson to Plattsburgh, where connection is made with the Chateaugay Railroad, which has lately been extended through the mountains to Saranac Lake, affording direct rail communication with the most famous hunting and fishing localities of the North Woods. Through sleeping cars run by this route between New York and Plattsburgh under fast schedules.

From Loon Lake Station a short stage ride of three miles conveys the traveler to Loon Lake, which is two and a half miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, and lies at an altitude of 1,800 feet above tide level. Its shores are irregular and rocky, and are surrounded by a rich growth of green forest. The Loon Lake House is one of the handsomest and best equipped of summer hotels, and is also one of the best patronized. Game is abundant in the vicinity and trout fishing in the lake and neighboring streams is unexcelled. From this point the trip can be made to St. Regis Lake or Rainbow Lake via boat and a regular system of "carrys." A delightful stage ride of six miles from Bloomingdale Station leads to Paul Smith's on St. Regis Lake, one of the most widely known and fashionable of Adirondack resorts.

Paul Smith's is probably the objective point for more health and pleasure seekers than any other point in the Adirondacks. The accommodations at the hotel are excellent, and the best fishing and hunting grounds are in the immediate vicinity. It is the great distributing point for the lake resorts, and is now comfortably reached by fast express trains over the New York Central & Hudson River, the Delaware & Hudson and the Chauteaugay Railroads, via Plattsburgh, and also by the New York Central & Hudson River, the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg and the Northern Adirondack Railroads, via Utica and Moira Junction. Through sleeping cars will be run between New York and Paul Smith's Station by the latter route during the season.

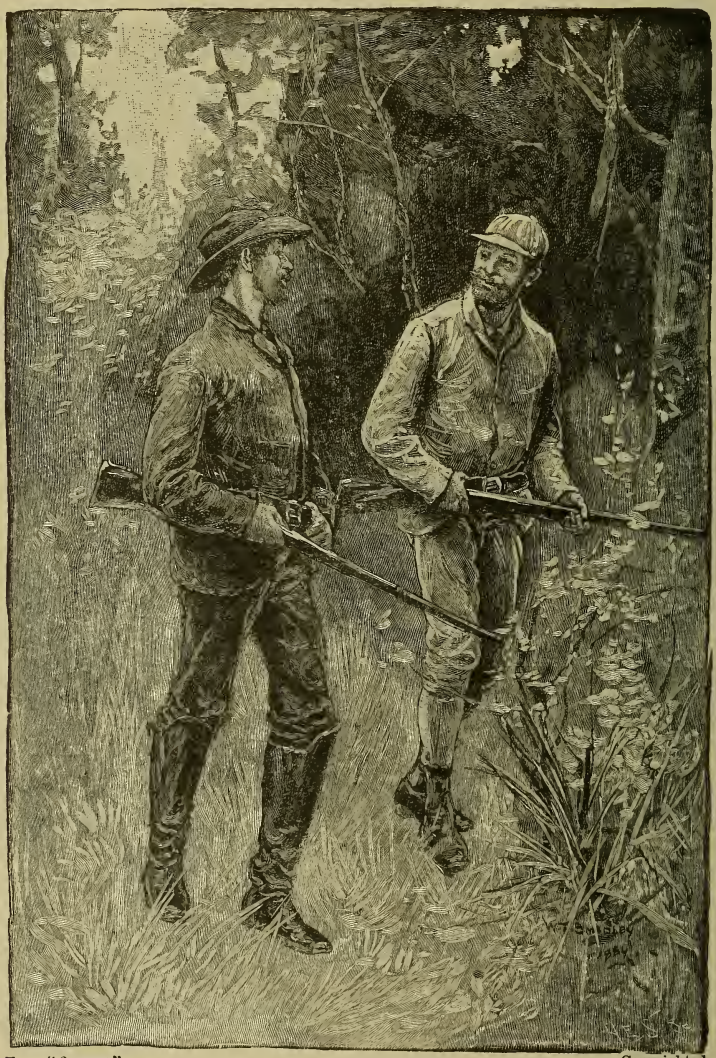

The St. Regis lakes are among the largest and finest in the region, and their elevation, about 1,800 feet, deep in the heart of the wilderness, with the peculiar dry, balmy air of the spruce and pine forests, have brought them into prominence as a retreat for sufferers from pulmonary and throat troubles, second to no other health resort. From these lakes, too, under the escort of an Adirondack guide, short trips can be made to regions so dark and wild, and lakes and ponds so primitive, that no sign of man or his work is to be seen. Here are found waters teeming with trout, and forests where deer and other large game are apparently as plentiful as when the aboriginal hunters and trappers roamed their depths.

Lower Saranac Lake at the terminus of the Chateaugay Railroad is a beautiful sheet of water, seven miles long and about two miles wide, studded with romantic islands, fifty-two in number. Miller's well-known Saranac Lake House is situated at the very edge of the lake, and is a favorite resort for sportsmen and their families.

The new and elegant Hotel Ampersand crowns a slight eminence at the foot of the lake, surrounded by a forest of pine, hemlock and balsam. From the verandas of the hotel a most magnificent view is obtained of the lake and surrounding mountains. The Ampersand remains open the year round, and enjoys a large patronage both summer and winter.

The Saranac River connects with Upper Saranac Lake, the largest and one of the loveliest of the Adirondack lakes. It is eight miles long and three miles wide, and contains numerous inviting islets. Saranac Inn, a favorite resort of ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland, forming their head-quarters during annual trips to the woods, is at the head of the lake, about 15 miles from Saranac Station, to which stages run connecting with all trains.

From "OUTING." Copyrighted.

Off for a Day's Sport.

The "Route of the Nine Carrys" conducts from the Upper Saranac to St. Regis Lake and Paul Smith's.

The tourist destined to the Tupper Lake Region can reach his destination by proceeding to the southwestern end of Upper Saranac Lake, thence via Sweeney's carry and the Raquette River, down which a small steamer runs to Cronk's on Tupper Lake. The best route from New York, however, is via the New York Central to Utica, thence via the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg and Northern Adirondack Railroads to Tupper Lake Station. Arrangements have been made to run sleeping cars by this route through from New York to Tupper Lake during the season.

It is a pleasant ride of eight miles from Saranac Lake Station to Lake Placid, which is the great central point of the region. The tourist should see as many places of interest as possible, but no stranger should go to the Adirondack Mountains without visiting Lake Placid. There are several large hotels here ; the fishing is good and the scenery glorious.

Au Sable Chasm is reached via Port Kent, a station on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, where connection is made with the Keesville, Au Sable Chasm & Lake Champlain Railroad. This beautiful wonder of Nature's handiwork is the channel which the Au Sable River has carved for itself in its rapid flow to its outlet in Lake Champlain. The chasm, which is almost two miles in length, is a narrow ravine or cañon with sides of solid rock, the mountain precipices of which tower in some cases nearly 200 feet above its dark waters, the top being fringed with cedars whose sombre shadows add to the mysterious and awe-inspiring grandeur. This marvel of nature has been justly considered one of the great natural wonders of the world, and, as the register kept at the hotel indicates, draws to it annually thousands of visitors from all parts of the United States and Europe. No traveler or lover of fine scenery should omit visiting it.

A regular system of guides and boat service is maintained through all the Adirondack lakes, via "carrys" through the forest, thus affording the visitor to the woods a pleasant experience never to be forgotten.

BURLINGTON, VT.,

Is delightfully situated on a hill 367 feet in height, which rises from the shores of Lake Champlain, and commands an extensive view of water and landscape. The city is regularly laid out, and contains many handsome churches and residences. The large and imposing Van Ness and American Houses on the southwest corner of the great public square in the centre of the city are reputed to be the most convenient and thoroughly appointed hotels in Vermont. Burlington was once the home of that gallant Revolutionary patriot, Colonel Ethan Allen, and his body now lies in the Green Mountain Cemetery, near the city, marked by a granite monument erected to his memory by the State of Vermont.

The charming country adjacent to the city furnishes many romantic drives and walks ; those leading along the Winooski River and to Shelburne Point and Harbor are, perhaps, the most attractive. Mallett's Bay, eight miles distant, is a beautiful sheet of water. One may also take the steamers across Lake Champlain to Port Kent (Au Sable Chasm), Plattsburgh and the Adirondacks. Burlington is reached by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad in connection with the Delaware & Hudson and Central Vermont routes.

MORE HOTELS.

As to the other hotels that can be found in every corner of the Catskills, it is enough to say that their proprietors and managers all look forward to a successful and a crowded season. Some of them have accommodations for fifty or sixty guests, but the majority of them can take over a hundred.

BOARDING-HOUSES GALORE.

As for boarding-houses, the Catskills may be said to literally teem with them. They are on every side—in front of you, behind you, to the right of you, to the left of you, above you on the mountain tops, below you in the valleys.

ONTEORA.

Onteora, or Hills of the Sky, is the pretty Indian name of what promises to be one of the most charming spots in the Catskills. This spot comprises over one thousand acres of land on the great high plateau at Tannersville, within only five hours' ride of New York, and has been purchased by a syndicate of New York gentlemen, who mean to make it a great summer colony. This syndicate is known as the Catskill Camp and Cottage Company, and one of its most active and enthusiastic members is its treasurer, Mr. F. B. Thurber, the well-known grocer. Mr. T. M. Wheeler is president, Mr. S. D. Coykendall vice-president, and Mr. Henry Martin secretary.

As its name indicates, this company intends to build cottages and camps for winter as well as summer occupancy on its property. The project has been received with a great deal of favor, and bids fair to assume much greater proportions than Mr. Thurber and his confreres anticipated. Indeed, the demand for cottages is greater than the company can supply.

"Located as this section is, but five hours from New York, it has a greater elevation and is cooler than the most frequented part of the Adirondacks, and is a veritable paradise for children and for the business or professional man who must often visit New York and yet desires to be with his family in the country as much as possible. The New York daily papers arrive by 10 A. M., telegraph, express and railway communication at hand, with a local telephone to points on the Hudson River. It seems hardly credible that a region in which bear and deer are still found should exist within five hours of the chief city of the nation, and that scenery, equaling in many respects that of Switzerland, and possessing both a historic and legendary interest, should be so little known and frequented by the present generation."

The Catskill Mountain resorts are best reached by the West Shore Railroad, which connects in Union Station at Kingston, with the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, and at Catskill with the Catskill Mountain Railroad. For the convenience of those desiring to leave New York from the Grand Central Station a table of fares is appended :

CAYUGA LAKE, N. Y.,

About thirty-eight miles long and from one to three and one half miles wide, is one of the most picturesque bodies of water in the State, and affords the visitor every variety of sport in the way of fishing, rowing, sailing and bathing. The steamers of the Cayuga Lake Transportation Company connect with trains at both ends of the lake. A division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad extends along the eastern margin. The Cayuga Lake House at Sheldrake, upon the western shore, is a resort of prominence, and is very much liked by scores of patrons from New York, Philadelphia and other large cities.

CAZENOVIA LAKE.

Cazenovia, situated on the lake of that name, is fifteen miles from Canastota and twenty from Syracuse. On all sides are evidences of Nature's prodigality. Vale and hillock blend together, forming a most charming landscape, while the general healthfulness and salubrity of the place offer a great attraction to the summer tourist. The right or east bank of the lake is almost entirely taken up by elegant cottages surrounded by magnificent grounds. Water-Lake-View, at the head of the lake, has a delightful hotel, from which steamers run at intervals to the village. The left bank of the lake is given up to picnic groves.

CHAUTAUQUA LAKE, N. Y.

Chautauqua, the farthest west of New York lakes, is situated in Chautauqua County, and is the highest navigable water on the continent, being 1,400 feet above sea-level. The lake is eighteen miles long, and in width varies from one to three miles, and is surrounded on all sides by richly wooded hills from 500 to 600 feet high. The invigorating air and the charming drives which the vicinity affords, combined with excellent boating, bathing and fishing facilities, render this a very popular summer resort. Here the Chautauqua Assembly, organized in 1874, holds its annual meeting every July and August. It is an enterprise

CHITTENANGO FALLS.

Chittenango Falls.

Eleven miles from Canastota the waters of the Chittenango tumble a hundred feet to the bottom of a rock-ribbed gorge, which looks from the railroad like a dark rift in the peaceful valley, but which really is a delightful retreat, easy of access and beautifully shaded, at the foot of the cascade.

The road makes so sharp a detour around the head of this deep and precipitous gorge that it has been likened to a horseshoe, Perryville Station being midway between the ends of the shoe, and within a stone's throw of the head of the gorge.

A little beyond this point the summit is reached, and a most commanding view is presented of the magnificently diversified Chittenango Valley beneath, stretching northward twenty-five miles and laterally as wide, with the whole of Oneida Lake, twelve miles distant, distinctly visible under the sky line of the picture.

ITHACA, N. Y.

Ithaca, appropriately named from its resemblance to that rock-bound town of ancient Greece, the home of Ulysses the Sage, is a thriving and handsome village, situated in the broad plain at the head of lovely Cayuga Lake. It is celebrated as the seat of Cornell University, and is surrounded by some of the most picturesque scenery in the State.

Within a radius of ten miles about Ithaca are found 150 waterfalls in dark gorges and beautiful glens, all of them easily accessible, and each possessing some peculiar feature of interest in connection with its surroundings, while many of them have special characteristics, which, independent of the rest, attract visitors and captivate them by the beauty and grandeur of their scenery. Of the last mentioned the most noted are found in Ithaca Gorge, in which the water falls 400 feet in one mile over seven distinct falls.

Starting from the foot of the gorge, a short but rapid rise leads to The Rest, a broad terrace, which commands a delightful view of the town and valley on one side and of the beautiful and grand Ithaca Fall on the other.

Forest Fall, the beautiful V-shaped Foaming Fall, some forty feet high; Rocky Fall, sixty feet high, and many other grand natural wonders are scattered throughout this remarkable region.

LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

LAKE Champlain is a picturesque sheet of water lying between the States of New York and Vermont, and extends for a short distance into Canada. It is about 130 miles in length and varies in breadth from half a mile to fifteen miles. This lake, filling a valley enclosed by lofty mountains, is celebrated for its magnificent scenery, embracing the Green Mountains of Vermont on the east and the Adirondack Mountains of New York on the west. Its waters in some places are 300 feet deep and abound with many varieties of fish.

Not only are the shores of Lake Champlain attractive in themselves, but they contain many places of celebrity and historic interest. At the confluence of the outlet of Lake George with Lake Champlain, the ruins of old Fort Ticonderoga loom up on the summit of a high rocky bluff. The remains of the fortress of Crown Point are still visible. The localities where Burgoyne held his council with the Indian tribes, and where Arnold and Carlton fought, are pointed out to the tourist. The naval battle in which Commodore McDonough gained his signal victory over General Macomb and the British flotilla was fought off Plattsburgh, and many other points of nearly equal interest are within easy reach. Vermont's most beautiful city, Burlington, is located upon the eastern shore of the lake. The Adirondacks, Au Sable Chasm, and other famous points full of interest to tourists, are reached with facility from Plattsburgh and Port Kent on the western shore.

This popular summer-resort region is accessible by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad in connection with the Delaware & Hudson Railroad.

Lake Dunmore, Vt.

Nestling at the foot of the loftiest range of the Green Mountains, and bounded on all sides by verdure-clad hills and rocky bluffs, this picturesque mountain lake attracts annually thousands of visitors. It is about four miles long and from one to one and a-half miles wide, and its clear and limpid waters teem with muskallonge and trout. Two large summer hotels and outlying cottages furnish all conveniences. The nearest railroad station is Brandon, on the Central Vermont Railroad.

Lake George, N. Y.

This matchless lake is situated in Warren and Washington counties, N. Y., 210 miles from New York City and seventy miles from Albany. It is 346 feet above sea-level, is thirty-five miles long from northeast to southwest, and from three quarters of a mile to four miles wide. It is the most famous and frequented of American lakes, and is renowned not only for the natural grandeur of its scenery, but also for the historic and legendary associations with which this locality is invested.

The Indian name of Lake George was "Horicon," meaning "silvery waters," and those who have visited it will recognize this as a most appropriate designation. High hills and precipitous cliffs surround the lake on all sides, and its surface is dotted with a multitude of little islets, said to correspond in number to the days of the year.

At Caldwell, at the lower end of the lake, are many magnificent hotels and superior boarding-houses, while the summer homes of wealthy New Yorkers are to be seen on every island and along the borders of the lake.

A delightful trip is that by the handsome steamer which starts from the Fort William Henry Hotel, Caldwell, at 9.40 a. m. daily, and, after touching at the wharves of the other hotels, proceeds to Baldwin, near the outlet of the lake, thirty-six miles, and returns in the afternoon, stopping at Sheldons, Bolton, Shelving Rock, Pearl Point, and many other landings en route.

Elegant drawing-room cars on fast express trains run daily between New York and Lake George via the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad and the Delaware & Hudson Railroad.

LAKE KEUKA.

At Lyons and Geneva the New York Central makes connection with the Fall Brook Coal Company's Railroad. A short side trip down the latter line brings the tourist to Penn Yan, a pleasant and busy manufacturing village at the foot of Lake Keuka, in the famous vineyard region of the State.

There are extensive graperies upon Seneca Lake, but to see the vintage at its best and to study the process of wine-making, Keuka should be visited when, in the still September days, her hillsides are resonant with the song of the pickers and the busy steamboats are piled high with crates of the luscious fruit. But Keuka is interesting at any period of the summer. Along the twenty-two miles of her length are several good hotels, with the allurements of good fishing, plenteous fare and pure upland atmosphere. The shores are dotted with bright little cottages, and an effort is now being made to give Keuka something the complexion of Chautauqua.

Good roads lead from the lake away through the fine agricultural regions of Yates and Steuben Counties.

The leading hotels are the Fairchild House, at Hammondsport, head of the lake; Grove Spring House, and the Ogo-ya-go, upon Bluff Point.

Four miles from Keuka Landing, by stage, is Crystal Springs, a resort having a large sanitarium and a hotel. The springs are strong white sulphur.

LAKE MINNEWASKA, N. Y.

This unique and most charming lake is situated on the summit of Shawangunk Mountain. It is eighty-eight miles from New York, and may be reached by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad to Poughkeepsie, thence by ferry to New Paltz Landing, and a stage ride of nine miles through delightful mountain scenery ; but a more desirable route is by the West Shore Railroad direct to New Paltz. The principal hotels are Lake Minnewaska House and Minnewaska Mountain House.

LAKE MUSKOKA.

This is the largest and one of the most beautiful of the lakes comprised under the general term of "The Lakes of Muskoka." It is about twenty-two miles long and eight miles wide, and, in common with all the other lakes of the Muskoka district, it affords most splendid fishing ; salmon, black bass and pickerel abound. The surface of the lake is studded with islands, large and small, many of which are adorned with handsome cottages, while several thriving villages, most of them offering first-class hotel accommodations, surround its margin. Art has been evoked in many instances to enhance the attractiveness of nature, and walks and drives, glades and grottoes have been formed to make pleasant this holiday country home.

LAKE ST. JOHN, P. Q.

Lake St. John, the headwater of the famed Saguenay River, is situated in a section of country which, for extent and diversity of landscape, can be best illustrated by calling it the Canadian Adirondacks. Roberval, the northern terminus of the Quebec & Lake St. John Railway, is a charming village on the lake, 190 miles from Quebec. The railway company have erected and are operating an excellent summer hotel here, in close proximity to the Hudson Bay Company's Post, at which the tourist and sportsman may secure the services of Montagnais Indians as guides for a few days' outing and sport in the forest.

This is a resort enjoying more than a local reputation, having been celebrated for several generations through the potent effects of its strong sulphur waters, which gush from a group of springs upon the shady banks of the Raquette River. The Hatfield House, which is essentially a tourist hotel, is kept in excellent style, the table being supplied from its own farm and kitchen gardens adjacent to the house. White's Hotel, located in the village, also accommodates tourists.

The fishing in this section is varied and excellent, many large muskallonge being caught in the vicinity.

MONTREAL.

The Canadian metropolis presents features sufficiently attractive both in summer and winter to fill its several hotels with American tourists for a goodly portion of the time.

The large steamers of the Richelieu & Ontario Line connecting with the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad trains at Clayton and Alexandria Bay in the early morning, land their passengers here at supper time after a delightful voyage down the rapids of the St. Lawrence.

The mingled French and Anglo-Saxon elements of the population ; the fine cathedral and other ecclesiastical buildings ; the markets, shops, drives, and, above all, the beautiful view from the mountain, all charm and interest the stranger.

The superb Windsor Hotel is unsurpassed in excellence by any of the American hotels, while the down-town houses along St. James Street are also favorably known to travelers.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.

Niagara Falls is recognized as the greatest natural wonder in the world, and is the objective point of tourists from the most remote parts of the earth. The mighty volume of water which forms the outlet of great Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron and Erie, is here precipitated over a precipice 160 feet high, with a roar which may be heard, under favorable circumstances, a distance of fifteen miles. Anthony Trollope wrote: "Of all the sights on this earth of ours, which tourists travel to see, I am inclined to give the palm to Niagara. In the catalogue of such sights I intend to include all buildings, pictures, statues and wonders of art made by men's hands, and also all beauties of Nature prepared by the Creator for the delight of His creatures. This is a long word, but, as far as my taste and judgment go, it is justified. I know of no other one thing so beautiful, so glorious and so powerful."

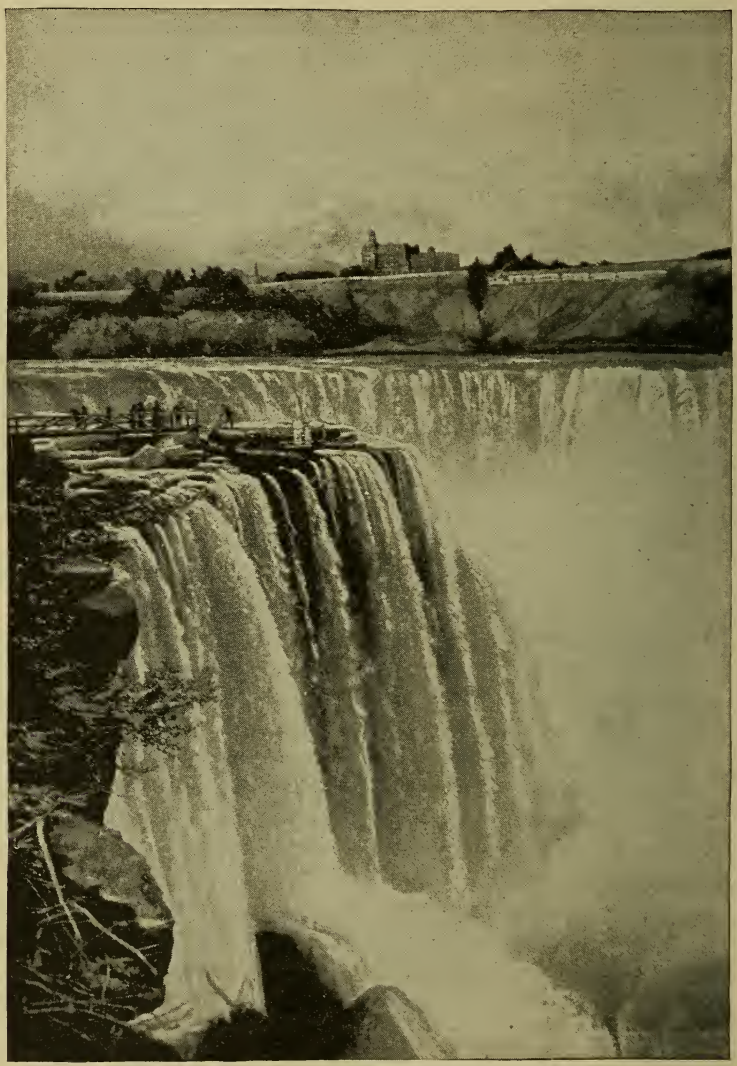

This mighty cataract is 447 miles from New York (within a single day's journey), and is reached most directly by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, of which it forms the western terminus.

In 1885 the State of New York acquired by purchase all the property on the American side adjacent to the Falls, including Prospect Park, and all the unsightly structures which heretofore obstructed the view have been removed, and a handsome terrace constructed for a distance of half a mile up the river.

It seems presumptuous to attempt a description of these world-renowned Falls in a meagre sketch, as volumes portraying their grandeur and magnificence might be written, and yet fail in conveying to the perception a clear and succinct outline of their wonderful proportions and great sublimity. To be properly appreciated they must be visited, and when once viewed the recollection of the visit will linger long in memory.

There is some uncertainty about the sex of Niagara. Is it Cleopatra, a queen of the sea, with the serpentine tresses? The full curves are feminine certainly. Or is it a sleeping Hercules, with tangled beard and knotted muscles? Perhaps both, for the Falls are double and essentially different, combining two great divisions of water scenery: the excitable, impulsive, fickle, endless fancies of the rapids, and the slow, wheel-like, unceasing, unfeeling, unvarying curves of the Falls themselves. Father Hennepin, its first white visitor, dared not name the spectacle. He could not tell what title to give it, so he called it still by its Indian name. The Senecas hereabouts (for our encylopædias ignore the matter) say that it means the Neck of the Lakes. One old Indian brave at least, to whom he applied, gave that answer.

Terrapin Rock and Horse-Shoe Falls.

Niagara, whatever it means, is in winter or summer alike a mystery. It cannot be photographed or pictured or understood. It preaches over our heads.

But is it good to go often and sit down under its vast rock pulpit, and even to fall asleep when the wind blows amid its dull, solemn roar, which is so unlike that of the sea — as children used to sink to rest under the old Puritan divines, not grasping their meaning, or even remembering their words, but carrying away ever an ineffaceable and holy impression of power divine.

No trip to Niagara Falls is now complete without a ride over the Lewiston Branch of the New York Central, which extends from Niagara Falls to Lewiston, a distance of seven miles, along shelving rock overlooking the magnificent scenery of the Niagara Gorge, and in full view of Queenston Heights, the Whirlpool Rapids, and Brock's Monument.

River-view trains, equipped with observation cars, are run at frequent intervals, and a pleasure steamer on Niagara River connects with observation trains, making trips to Brock's Monument, Queenstown, and to the outlet of the river at Lake Ontario, Fort Niagara, Youngstown, etc.

The Niagara Navigation Company's fast and palatial passenger steamers, the "Chicora" and the "Cibola," ply regularly between Lewiston and the city of Toronto, in connection with the New York Central trains, which now run direct to Lewiston dock.

The Oswegatchie River comes down into the Valley of the St. Lawrence from a group of lakes upon the plateau to the southward, and at Ogdensburg supplies an excellent water-power, which has contributed much toward making this place one of the most prosperous and handsome cities upon our northern frontier.

It is an important transfer point for grain and merchandise coming in via the great lakes and the Canadian railways. Many handsome churches and public buildings, as well as artistic homes, border the shady streets. Ogdensburg is one of the most important points on the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad, and the western terminus of the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain Railroad.

ONTARIO BEACH, N. Y.

This attractive summer resort is situated at Charlotte, on the shore of Lake Ontario, seven miles from the city of Rochester. The surrounding country is as fertile as a garden, and a ride or walk in the vicinity presents scenes of beauty and varied color that none can fail to admire and enjoy. The village itself, with its well-shaded streets, tasteful houses, and public-spirited citizens, makes an ideal summer home.

Directly upon the shore of the lake, about a half-mile distant from the village, is the commodious and elegant Hotel Ontario, which was erected in 1884, at great expense. It is handsomely furnished and fitted throughout, and contains all the latest appliances for the comfort and pleasure of patrons. A large dancing pavilion, near the hotel, for the use of excursion parties, is connected with bowling alleys, billiard rooms and the like, and, though separate from the hotel itself, these means of recreation are close at hand. The beach, at the point where the hotel is located, is exceptionally fine for bathing, and the facilities for boating and fishing are unsurpassed. Two hundred guests can be accommodated with ease, and the trains of the New York Central, after making a detour about the grounds, stop in front of the main entrance.

OWASCO LAKE, N. Y.

This placid sheet extends between gently sloping hills dotted with farms and groves from a point three miles from Auburn, ten miles toward the south, with an average width of one mile.

Excellent drives extend along either side of the lake, and upon its western shore the track of the Auburn Division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad connects Auburn and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad with several pretty resorts upon the lake and with the main line of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Sayre, Pa.

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y.

A beautiful town of about eight thousand inhabitants, situated on the west shore of Lake Champlain, at the mouth of the Saranac River. The Champlain Transportation Company's steamers ply daily between Fort Ticonderoga and Plattsburgh, and daily steamers cross the lake to St. Albans, a sail of twenty-five miles, and a most delightful trip. The black bass fishing in Lake Champlain is unsurpassed, if equaled, by any other waters.

Richfield Springs, N. Y.

Richfield Springs is among the Otsego hills and lakes, in the county of that name, very near the centre of the State of New York. It is fourteen miles from Cooperstown, and but six miles from the famous Otsego Lake, renowned for romance of the past, and picturesque beauty now and always.

It is most directly accessible by the New York Central Route, over which through drawing-room cars run in connection with the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, from Utica, a distance of fifteen miles.

No scenery is perfect without a sheet of water in the landscape, and Richfield Springs is so happily located that this requirement is also fulfilled. The village is located on the shore of Canadarago Lake, one of the prettiest sheets of water in America. Being five miles long by about two miles wide, it is sufficiently large for boating, whether with canoes, skiffs, sail boats or steam launches and yachts, while its expanse is not sufficient to make its waters dangerous or even unpleasantly rough, from any winds that can reach it in its mountain setting. It is a bowl of water of crystal clearness, rimmed by picturesque and protecting hills, in whose shadows one can creep through all the sunshine hours. It is the delight alike of the artist and the tourist. A beautiful island is encircled by its pellucid water, breaking its smooth surface and adding much to the charm of the view.

The Springs, which add a great and unique attraction to the scenic and sanitary advantages of this secluded and yet accessible and brilliant vacation home, are the leading Natural White Sulphur Fountains of the North, and are not surpassed either in the value or the celebrity of their waters by any sulphur springs in the world. Though alike in general characteristics, these sixteen springs in or near the village, differ widely in their special properties. While their waters, intelligently used, are healthful to everybody, cleansing and toning up the system, they are especially valuable as alteratives or blood purifiers, and in all kinds of rheumatic affections.

Street Scene, Richfield Springs.

Indeed experience has abundantly shown that they positively cure rheumatism, gout, malaria, neuralgia, dyspepsia, catarrh, liver and kidney complaints, and all diseases of the blood, while they have no superior in cases of consumption and nervous disorders resulting from impaired nutrition. As a safe retreat for the victims of hay-fever, Richfield Springs is unsurpassed. The summer hotels are large and modern, with the very best service and reputation.

ROUND LAKE, N. Y.

This lake, as its name indicates, is nearly circular in form and about three miles in circumference. It is the headquarters of the celebrated Round Lake summer schools, which are in session about three months every year, and are in charge of a faculty of forty of the best teachers of the country. The grounds are in an extensive forest tract bordering the lake, and contain a large summer hotel, a fine museum, art school and costly memorial building. The streets are regularly built, running at right angles, and are lined with cottages, making altogether a village of considerable size, which presents a unique appearance, embowered, as it is, in the woods, with the throng of visitors and residents who enliven its sylvan glades in great numbers from June until late in September. Private board and lodging may be obtained in cottages at very reasonable rates. An expensive system of sanitary drainage has recently been completed, adding to the salubrity of the place and making it a delightful and healthful summer resort.

SARATOGA SPRINGS,

ACKNOWLEDGED the most popular and accessible of all American Spas, is the centre each season of the highest social and political gatherings. The broad piazzas of the vast hotels present a panorama of the best and most varied types of our leisurely classes reinforced by thousands of the affluent citizens of other lands. Primarily famous for its diverse medicinal waters it is still more popular with the world at large because of its constant gaiety, and the peerless beauty of its environment.

Aside from the beautiful artificial features found in Congress Spring Park, and other improvements of the kind, the drives through Hilton Park and to Saratoga Lake are always enjoyable.

The hotels of Saratoga are among the largest and finest in the world ; the most noted being the United States, Grand Union, Windsor, Congress Hall, Kensington and Clarendon, while a host of smaller hotels and boarding-houses furnish excellent accommodation at from $7.00 to $25.00 per week.

During the season, the famous Saratoga Specials via the New York Central and Delaware & Hudson Railroads run daily in both directions, and the Saratoga Limited, one of the fastest trains run on the continent, and composed exclusively of drawing-room and buffet cars, leaves New York Saturdays at 2 P. M., and returning leaves Saratoga Mondays at 6 A. M. An elegant dining-car is attached to the south-bound train from Saratoga, serving breakfast immediately upon departure from the station. For full details, time of trains, etc., see page 252.

From Saratoga the visitor may readily enter the enchanted region of the Adirondacks, over the route of the Adirondack Railway or via the Delaware & Hudson Railroad to Lake George, Lake Champlain and the Northern portion of the Adirondack Mountains as well as all points in Northern New England and Canada.

SHARON SPRINGS, N. Y.

This is appropriately termed the Baden-Baden of America. Situated in Schoharie County, N. Y., in a romantic valley, 1,100 feet in altitude and surrounded by high hills, Sharon Springs justly occupies a foremost position among the sanitariums and fashionable summer resorts of the world. Its springs of chalybeate, magnesia, white sulphur and blue sulphur, and its celebrated pine-needle and mud baths possess wonderful curative powers in blood, skin, liver, rheumatic and neuralgic affections.

The New York Central, in connection with the Delaware & Hudson Railroad maintains through parlor and sleeping-car service between New York and Sharon Springs for the accommodation of the annual rush of visitors to this famed resort.

SENECA LAKE, N. Y.

BEYOND a doubt Seneca Lake is one of the most remarkable bodies of water in this country. It is forty miles in length, and the water is of great purity and depth. Its shores are grand and picturesque, consisting of a succession of hills and promontories sweeping back from the lake in graceful lines, their sides thickly wooded in some places, in others covered with well-tilled farms and vineyards.

The steamers of the Seneca Lake Navigation Company, large and shapely in appearance, connect with New York Central trains at Geneva for Watkins and intermediate points, a voyage of forty miles. This is a most enjoyable detour, and the time devoted to a round trip from Geneva will not be regretted by the lover of the picturesque. The scenery, as the boat progresses toward the head of the lake, grows hourly more charming and effective. Upon the numerous forest-covered points projecting into the blue waters of the lake, marking the deep glens sure to be hidden among the verdure of the slope, are pretty hotels, cottages and camps. At Ovid the great State Asylum for the Insane is located in the midst of restful influences which wean the troubled brain from its disordered imaginings.

Sixteen miles from Geneva the handsome Long Point Hotel, situated upon a beautiful little peninsula, is reached. This is a popular summering point unusually attractive in both the appearance of the house and its environment.

THE THOUSAND ISLANDS OF THE ST. LAWRENCE.

CAPE VINCENT, CLAYTON, ROUND ISLAND (THE FRONTENAC), THOUSAND ISLAND PARK AND ALEXANDRIA BAY.

CLAYTON, the railroad terminus to the renowned Thousand Island resorts, is situated on the St. Lawrence River, 108 miles north of Utica, and is reached via the New York Central to Utica; thence by the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad. For through parlor and sleeping car service between New York and Clayton, the reader is referred to the folders of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad. Clayton is a charming village of about 3,000 inhabitants, and during the season of summer travel is a gay and animated town. It is at this point that tourists embark on the Royal Mail steamers for the trip among the islands and through the rapids to Montreal and Quebec. Here, too, passengers for Round Island Park, Thousand Island Park, Central Park and Alexandria Bay take passage on the Thousand Island Steamboat Company's popular line of steamers, for the famous resorts down the river. Geographically considered, the location of Clayton is unsurpassed. It is situated on a bold peninsula jutting out into the pure waters of the most majestic of American rivers. Broad bays, both to the east and west, afford a variety of coast suited to the various wants of man.

Its three hotels—the Hubbard House, the West End and the Walton House—are well and favorably known to all acquainted with the beauties of this region. They are conducted with the utmost care and skill, and guests will find them both comfortable and home-like.

Directly in front of the town beautiful islands, upon which summer houses have been erected, form a most pleasing contrast to the wide stretch of water above.

ROUND ISLAND.

Round Island, a ten-minute ride from Clayton, shows the tower of its extensive new Frontenac, the latest and most tasteful hotel improvement upon the river. Mr. E. D. Dickinson, a well-known hotel manager, assumes charge this season. All modern improvements including an elevator have just been added. Sixty picturesque cottages dot the island. The tourist who has once tarried beneath the roof of the Frontenac, explored the picturesque nooks upon the island, fished in the immediate vicinity, and gained a taste generally of the quality of summer life here, may be safely counted upon to say a word in its praise. Hotel rates here are exceptionably reasonable. As the steamer approaches Round Island the many lovely summer homes ranged along the rocky shores, the beautiful boats, such as only the St. Lawrence can boast, and the groups of brightly dressed, vivacious residents, tempt the new-comer to cast his lot with the Round Islanders, and partake of their evident comfort and happiness, and he will not choose amiss.

THOUSAND ISLAND PARK.

Thousand Island Park, the next stop after leaving Round Island Park, is the extensive camp meeting resort of the Methodists, and the large and handsome hotel facing the river is controlled by the association. The tabernacle in which the meetings are held during the summer is hidden from view among the trees

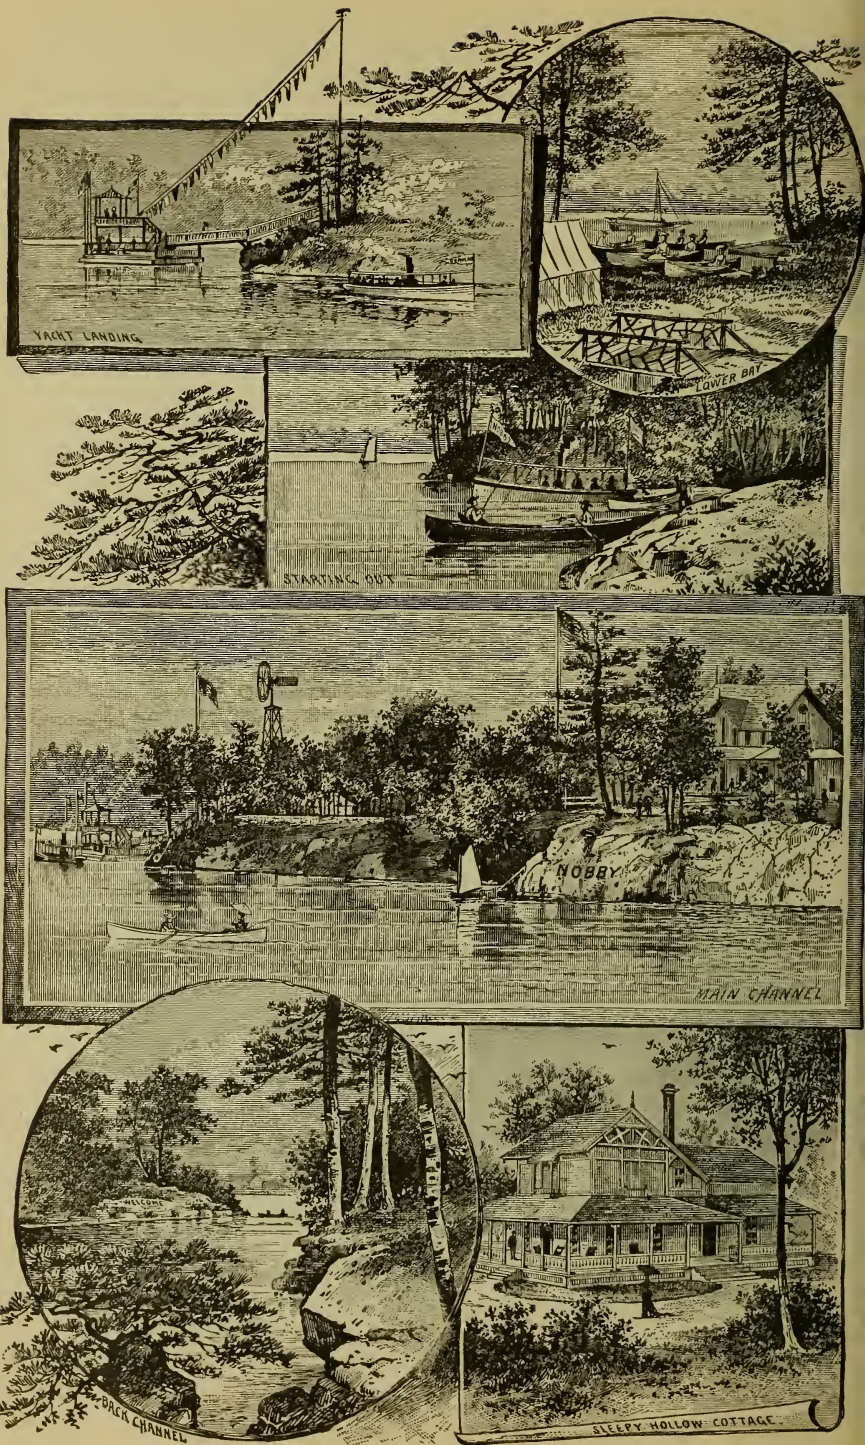

CENTRAL PARK.

The next important landing is Central Park, midway down the narrow and picturesque American channel. The Cottage Hotel here is famed for its excellent table.

ALEXANDRIA BAY.

Alexandria Bay, from its central position in the very heart of the Thousand Island region, and from the vast improvements that have sprung up as if by magic within the past dozen years, both on the islands and the main land, has achieved a world-wide reputation, and is visited annually by myriads of people, many of them from the remotest portions of the globe.

Nobby Island, Thousand Islands.

Hotel accommodations are of the first-class. The fame of the Thousand Island House exceeds the limits of the continent. It occupies a commanding position on the banks of the river, affording its guests enchanting views of the lovely scenery which surrounds it on every side. Hay-fever and malaria are unknown here. This hotel is now the property of Mr. R. H. Southgate of the Hotel Brunswick, New York, and has been entirely refitted and refurnished to suit the best custom of the country, special regard being paid to the comfort of families.

Mr. Southgate has successfully managed large city and summer resort properties, and acquired the Thousand Island House for the reason that he regards Alexandria Bay and the Islands of the St. Lawrence as the most attractive resort for health and pleasure seekers in the country.

The handsome Crossmon House stands upon a point looking out towards the river and the busy little bay from which the place derives its name. Mr. Chas. G. Crossmon, the son of the hale old founder of the property, is the active manager, and to his energy and ability are chiefly due the marked and growing success which attend the "Crossmon."

Still another hotel which has become far-famed for its generous hospitality and home-like comforts, supplied at rates which all will consider reasonable, is the Marsden House, which, although only recently opened to the public, has already become a favorite with tourists. People of quiet tastes, fishermen and hunters will find the Marsden House just such a place as they "long have sought," and generally sought in vain.

The name of the Cornwall Brothers is familiar to all former visitors to Alexandria Bay. Well known as reliable merchants of long standing, they furnish supplies to camping parties and residents of the islands at the most reasonable rates. They also have the agency for the sale of excursion and regular tickets to Lakes George and Champlain, Montreal, Quebec, the White Mountains, Saratoga, Boston, Portland, New York, and, in fact, to all points—north, south, east and west.

At no other place in the Western Hemisphere can seekers after health and pleasure find both in greater measure during the summer months, than among the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence.

The name is in some respects a misnomer, for there are nearly two thousand of these islands altogether, and probably one thousand within a half-dozen miles from Alexandria Bay. Nearly all are small, varying in size from a surface of a few yards square in extent to several acres. Many are separated only by channels so narrow as to be invisible at a short distance. As a general thing they are well-wooded and cool; inviting inlets and bays are numerous, where the ardent fisherman can enjoy his favorite sport to the top of his bent.

Several of the islands are of considerable extent, the largest being Wellesly Island, the lower end of which is just below Alexandria Bay. It is eight miles long, and four miles wide at some points. It contains a number of farms which have been cultivated for fifty years. At the lower end of the island is Westminster Park, owned by members of the Presbyterian denomination. It has many delightful drives and several fine buildings.

Other notable points are Royal Island, owned by Mr. R. E. Deane, of New York, situated about two miles from Alexandria Bay ; Pullman Island, at which General Grant and a party of friends were entertained by Mr. George M. Pullman ; St. John's Island, the property of Judge Charles Donohue, of the New York Supreme Court, who has erected a handsome cottage on his water-bound domain, and is constantly making improvements. One of the most eligible sites is Nobby Island, owing to its position and natural formation. It is the property of Mr. Henry R. Heath, of Brooklyn, who has devoted much time and money to its adornment. He also owns the noted Devil's Oven Island, so termed because for several months the water cave lying underneath it was the hiding-place of the pirate, "Bill Johnson," who, during the patriot war of 1837-'39, is said to have set on fire and destroyed the British steamer, "Sir Robert Peel," on the south side of Wellesly Island, in the month of May, 1838. Aided by his devoted daughter, he succeeded in eluding his pursuers, and made his escape.

Other lovely and noted spots in this vicinity are "Bonnie Castle," which was the summer home of the late Dr. J. G. Holland, the popular author and lecturer ; "Fairy Land," belonging to the Messrs. Hayden, of Columbus, Ohio, and "Sport" Island, which is the property of Mrs. H. E. Packer, of Mauch Chunk, Pa. It would be difficult to enumerate in detail a full list of all the lovely villas between Clayton and the "Bay," and in the vicinity of the latter.

A fast evening train, with through sleeping cars, will leave New York by the New York Central during the season, arriving at Alexandria Bay for breakfast.

Return fast train will leave Alexandria Bay in the evening and arrive in New York early next morning.

TORONTO, ONT.

Toronto, the capital of the Province of Ontario, is situated on the northwest shore of Lake Ontario between the Don and Humber rivers. It is one of the largest and most prosperous of Canadian cities, and possesses many fine public buildings, churches, libraries and parks.

The Niagara Navigation Company's palatial steamers "Chicora" and "Cibola" make three daily round trips between Toronto and Lewiston on the American shore, where direct connection is made at the steamer wharf with trains for Niagara Falls, fifteen miles distant. These trains are equipped with observation cars, affording grand views of the Niagara Gorge, Queenstown Heights, Brock's Monument and the Whirlpool Rapids. To persons contemplating a visit to Toronto, this is commended as a particularly attractive route.

TRENTON FALLS, N. Y.

Much has been written about the far-famed Trenton Falls, situated on West Canada Creek, and reached after a ride of eighteen miles from Utica over the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad. The beauty of this lovely spot has been recorded by the pens of such gifted writers as Mrs. Kemble, N. P. Willis and George William Curtis.

"Poets' fancies only should image the falls, they are so rich and rare a combination of quiet picturesqueness, of beauty and a sense of resistless force in the running water. You descend from a lofty wood into a long rocky chasm, which the Germans would call a grund, for it is not a valley. It is walled and pavemented with smooth rocks, and the thronging forest fringes the summit of the wall. Over this smooth pavement slips the river in those long, swift, still, foamless bounds, which vividly figure the appalling movement of a titanic serpent. The chasm almost closes up the river, and you see a foamy cascade. Then, as if the best beauty and mystery were beyond, you creep along a narrow ledge on the rocky side of the throat of the gorge and reach the first large fall. A slight spray enfolds you as a baptism in the spirit of the place. Before you is a level parapet of rock ; and the river, after sliding very shallowly over the broad bed above, concentrates and plunges in a solid amber sheet. Close by the side of this you climb, and pass along the base of the overhanging mountain, and, stooping under the foot of an impending cliff, stand before the great fall, which has two plunges, a long one above, from which the river sheers obliquely over a polished floor of rock, and again plunges. The river bends here, and a high, square, regular bank projects from the cliff, smooth as a garden terrace, and perpetually veiled and softened by spray. It is one of the boldest and most beautiful points in the long ravine, and when the late light of afternoon falls soft upon it, there is a strange contrast in your feelings as visions of Boccaccio's garden mingle with the wilderness of American woods."

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y.

The lovely Village of Watkins at the head of Seneca Lake is the Mecca of a vast pilgrimage of those who halt here to explore its peerless glen. This remarkable cañon—a water-worn rift in the mountain side—is entered from its lower portals just at the head of the village. The coaches of the several hotels of the place are always at the landing upon the arrival of boats, that of the Glen Mountain House, located above and in the glen and operated in connection with the glen property, being the usual one chosen by visitors.

A pleasing and satisfactory feature connected with the romantic location of this hotel is the novelty of situation of the dining-room, which is in a Swiss Chalet (such as is found among the mountains, lakes and glens of Switzerland) across the glen from the hotel, whereby all unpleasant odors arising from cooking, noise and confusion occasioned by servants, and heat from ranges and ovens, are wholly avoided, rendering the Glen Mountain House one of the most delightfully cool and pleasantly situated summer hotels in the United States.

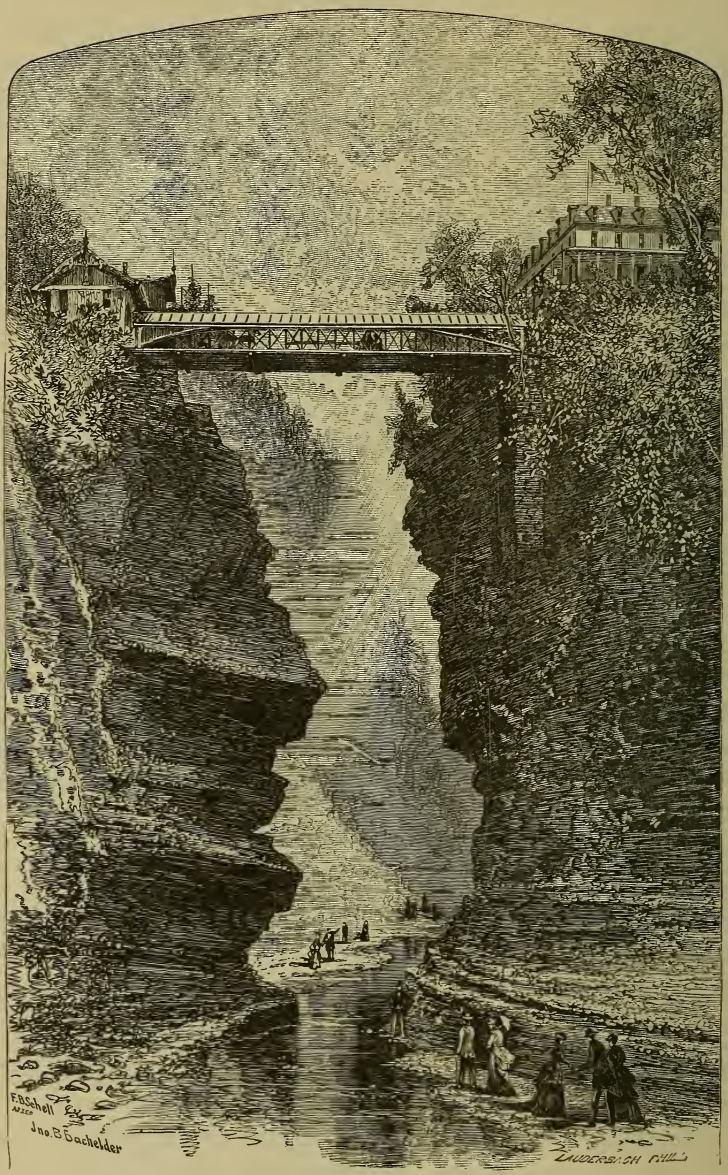

The many picturesque features of Watkins Glen have been described by a thousand pens. 'Twere a pity that anyone passing through this region to whom the glen is not familiar should go from Seneca Lake without having set foot in this temple of Nature's handiwork. The glen may be "done" with a good pair of lungs and equally good legs, in a couple of hours. It ought to occupy one a full day.

Watkins is reached via the New York Central to Lyons or Geneva ; thence either by the Fall Brook Coal Company's Railroad or steamer on Seneca Lake, also via the New York Central to Canandaigua, and the Northern Central Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

WHITE MOUNTAINS, N. H.

The White Mountains rise from a plateau in Grafton and Coos counties, New Hampshire, forty-five miles long by thirty miles broad, and 1,600 feet above the sea-level. The peaks cluster in two groups, of which the eastern is known as White Mountains and the western as Franconia Notch. They are divided by a table-land varying from ten to twenty miles in breadth. With the exception of the Black Mountains of North Carolina, several of these peaks are the highest elevations in the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

New York Central & Hudson River Railroad

TOURIST SEASON OF 1890.

Special Information relating to the sale and use of Tourists' Tickets.

The special tickets described herein will be sold from June 1st to September 30th, inclusive, and will be available until October 31st, inclusive (except in the case of steamboats or stages that discontinue their trips earlier). The tickets entitle holders to all the privileges of regular first-class tickets.

Children between 5 and 12 years of age, half fare ; over 12, full fare.

Stop over privileges are usually granted on summer tourist tickets ; but to avoid misunderstanding, passengers should notify the proper official of the train or boat of their desire to stop over, as the stop-over regulations of the various lines vary. For a brief summary of the rules now in effect on the lines over which summer tourist tickets read, see pages 186 and 187.

Summer excursion tickets during the season will be received for passage on the NEW YORK AND CHICAGO LIMITED, when presented in connection with Extra Fare tickets, in the case of through tickets from the West ; or without Extra Fare tickets between New York State points, provided the Drawing-room or Sleeping Car tickets are presented in connection with the summer excursion tickets.

Summer excursion tickets will be available on the NEW YORK AND SARATOGA LIMITED if presented in connection with Drawing-room Car tickets, as no ordinary coaches will be run on the Limited Trains.

Through tickets by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad are available between New York and Albany by the Day Line Steamers, or all rail, at the option of passengers.

Tickets reading by the Delaware & Hudson Railroad will be accepted for passage between Plattsburgh and Fort Ticonderoga, on Lake Champlain Steamers, and permit the holder to remain over at Port Kent, thus affording holders an opportunity to visit Au Sable Chasm.

Tickets reading via Glens Falls and Lake George Stages, between Lake George and Caldwell, in either direction, will be accepted for passage on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad between the same points.

Tickets to points on the Fall Brook Coal Co.'s R. R. reading to Geneva via Lyons, will be good from the East via Auburn, and from the West via Canandaigua, if desired, without extra charge.

Tickets between Cooperstown and Richfield Springs by the Otsego Lake steamer and stage, are for passage only; baggage will be charged extra.

Tickets reading by the Grand Trunk or Canadian Pacific Railway, or steamer, between Toronto and Kingston, Kingston and Prescott, Prescott and Montreal, or Montreal and Quebec, are valid either by rail or by the steamers of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, at the option of passengers.

On tickets reading over Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company's Steamers meals and berths are extra.

Tickets by Sound Line Steamers between New York and Boston include a berth.

Summer tourists are reminded that many of the steamers and stage lines cease operations or make irregular trips after October 1st of each year. Passengers should consult local advertising matter for proper information.

Stop-over Privileges on Summer Excursion Tickets.

NOTE.—It should be understood that the stop-over privileges extended by the several lines (as noted below) require passengers to take such trains or boats as make stops regularly at the desired stopping-place. These stop-over privileges do not apply on tickets limited to continuous passage.

ON THE HILLS OVERLOOKING THE WORLD-FAMED HUDSON.

1.— Because the country possesses a natural drainage and is free from malaria.

2.— Because the air is untainted and full of vital ozone.

3.— Because the water is good in quality and abundant in quantity.

4.— Because the surroundings are agreeable, the schools and churches excellent, the drives magnificent, and the views unsurpassed.

5.— Because you want your children to grow up as free as possible from contact with the evils of city street life, and with that robust mental and physical development that is best secured by country or village life, with its healthful atmosphere, bracing air and invigorating sports.

6.— Because when you visit the city you want to arrive at and depart from the Grand Central Station, in the heart of New York, and convenient to its Residences, Hotels, Theatres, Parks, Museums, etc.

ANY SCHEME OF RAPID TRANSIT FROM NEW YORK CITY MUST NECESSARILY BRING THE BEAUTIFUL HILLS ALONG THE HUDSON INTO CLOSER COMMUNICATION WITH DOWN-TOWN, AND EVERY PART OF THE CITY.

THE LOWEST COMMUTATION FARES. . . . . THE BEST SUBURBAN TRAIN SERVICE.

New Wagner Palace Drawing-room and Sleeping Cars, and faster trains, together with easy grades and natural advantages, have combined to secure for the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad the foremost place among the transportation lines of America.

ROYAL TRAVELING FACILITIES.

PRIVATE CARS FOR CHARTER

TO FAMILIES AND SPECIAL PARTIES.

THE WAGNER PALACE CAR COMPANY, with an enterprise that has marked every branch of its excellent service during the past two years, has placed in service, on the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad and connecting lines throughout the United States and Canada, a number of private or special cars that are indisputably more comfortable in arrangement and more luxurious in appointments than any similar cars ever before offered for charter.

Diagrams, showing the interior arrangement of three of these cars, are presented on the opposite page in order to convey an adequate idea of the conveniences provided for the comfort of the occupants of cars of this description, whether for a long or a short journey. Diagrams of other cars will be furnished on application.

The demand from families, private parties and theatrical stars for the private cars owned by the WAGNER PALACE CAR COMPANY is steadily increasing, and for a party making an extended trip no other mode of traveling is at all comparable.

These private cars have been constructed upon plans approved by experienced travelers, so as to insure all the comforts of a home or a first-class hotel that it is possible to realize in so restricted a space. They have large saloons or parlors, furnished with luxurious movable chairs, tables, reading lamps, etc. The private bedrooms have large beds and toilet conveniences.

The kitchens are fully equipped, and experienced cooks, waiters and porters accompany the cars.

If desired, the Company supplies the commissariat at cost, or persons chartering a private car have the privilege of making their own arrangements for supplies.

The observation ends, with sofas, easy chairs and large plate-glass end and side windows, contribute to make a trip in a private car one of exceptional enjoyment.

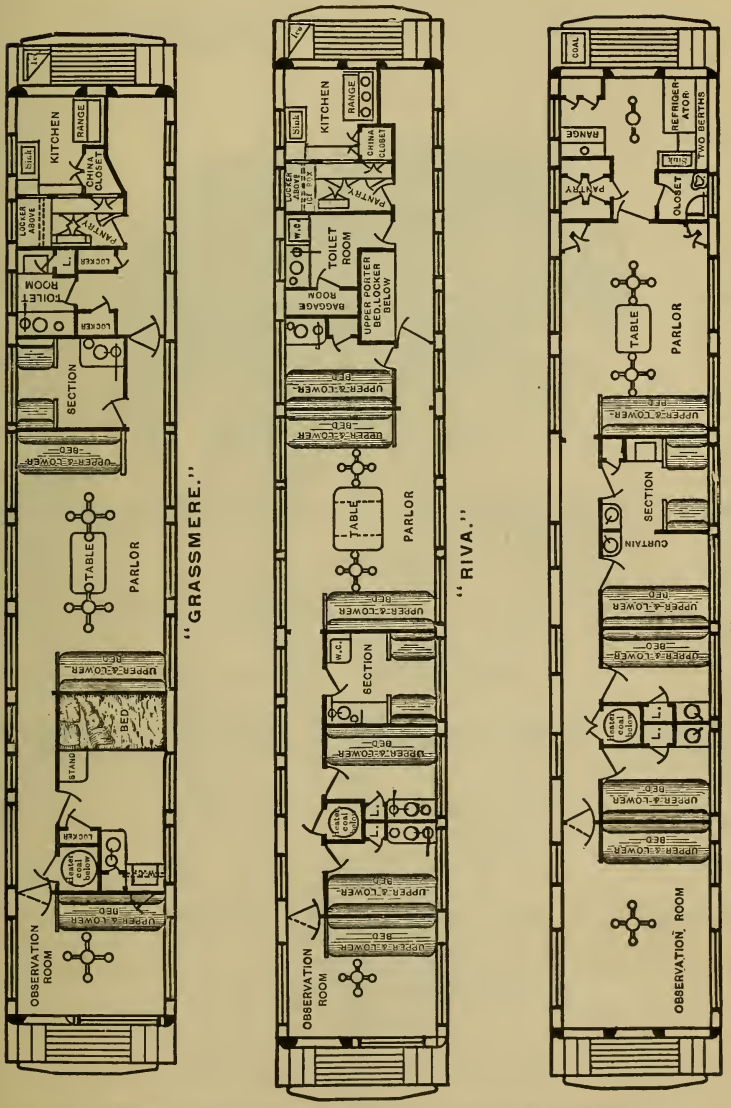

The cars accommodate from twelve to sixteen persons, in addition to attendants. For larger parties Elegant Palace Sleeping Cars, accommodating from twenty-five to thirty persons, can be chartered.

Further information will be cheerfully furnished upon application to Mr. C. D. FLAGG, General Superintendent Wagner Palace Car Company, Vanderbilt Avenue, opposite Grand Central Station, New York, or to any of the following representatives of the passenger department of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company :

THE

Safety Car Heating and Lighting Company

The Celebrated Pintsch System for lighting passenger coaches by compressed oil gas STANDS UNRIVALLED, AND IS ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE THE MOST BRILLIANT LIGHT EVER INTRODUCED. In Europe over 30,000 COACHES ARE EQUIPPED FOR AND ARE NOW USING COMPRESSED OIL GAS.

FOR OVER FIVE YEARS, this system has furnished the standard light in the coaches of the WEST SHORE and the NEW YORK, LAKE ERIE & WESTERN RAILWAYS. THE ROADS COMPRISING THE VANDERBILT SYSTEM, both the great PALACE CAR COMPANIES OF AMERICA, the BOSTON & ALBANY, NEW YORK, PROVIDENCE & BOSTON, NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND, CENTRAL OF NEW JERSEY, DELAWARE, LACKAWANNA & WESTERN, ROME, WATERTOWN & OGDENSBURG, RIO GRANDE WESTERN, CINCINNATI, HAMILTON & DAYTON, LOUISVILLE, NEW ALBANY & CHICAGO, WABASH, CHICAGO & ATLANTIC, and many other lines are lighting their coaches by this system. The gas is ABSOLUTELY SAFE, and affords the most brilliant light ever in use for the illumination of passenger coaches.

The STANDARD SYSTEM for car heating by the application of steam and the circulation of hot water, insures uniform and QUICK RADIATION OF HEAT; IS ECONOMICAL. reliable and preserves the heaters intact for use in case of emergency. THE STANDARD SYSTEM for heating is in use on the above, and other lines.

We have also a perfected system of heating by direct steam.

WHEN YOU ARE IN

NEW YORK CITY

You will be judged by strangers as much from the newspaper you are seen to be reading, as from any other token. Always read THE DAILY AND SUNDAY TRIBUNE. You cannot make a mistake in so doing. Points about THE TRIBUNE:

1.—It is universally read by people of cultivation and refinement.

2.—Its broad columns and plain large print make it the easiest paper in the city to read.

3.—Its foreign correspondence, its dramatic and literary reviews, and its editorial page, are absolutely without superiors for interest, ability, and workmanlike analysis of the subjects treated.

4.—It has all the news, is an immense p. per, and generally beats its competitors by a day in printing important public matters.

Worcester's Unabridged Dictionary, virtually for $2 cash.—The genuine Worcester's Unabridged, quarto, 2,126 pages, sheep covers, the largest American dictionary in existence, is offered by THE TRIBUNE to mail subscribers as a premium. It is the favorite dictionary of American colleges, newspapers, and book publishers, and contains several thousand words more than any other; and has the supplement of 12,500 words. a biographical dictionary of 12,000 persons, a gazetteer of 20,000 places, and synonyms of 5,000 words. Illustrated. Sold in the stores for $10. Sent by THE TRIBUNE for $2 cash to:

1.—Any one sending $10 for a club of ten Weeklies, or for the Weekly five years for himself, and one year for five other persons.

2.—Any one sending $10 for a club of five Semi-Weeklies for one year, or the Semi-Weekly for himself for five years.

☞ Readers of the Daily will please write for special terms. Dennison's Patent Indexing $1 extra. The book sent at the purchaser's expense for freight.

"Open Air Sports."—THE TRIBUNE has published a large octavo of 500 pages, under this title, with 150 illustrations, which is a complete encyclopedia of the history of every American open air sport, with rules for attaining safety and excellence in each one. It is written by experts, and is an authority. Price, $1 per copy.

A Brightly Written, Well Edited and Beautifully Illustrated Journal of Society.

CIRCULATION EXCEEDING 50,000 A WEEK.

Address, TRUTH,
140 Fifth Avenue, NEW YORK.

THE MAIL AND EXPRESS is the best evening newspaper published in America. It employs a larger staff of editors, correspondents and news gatherers than any other evening newspaper. It pays more money for news than any of its contemporaries. It is the only evening newspaper that has its own special correspondents in Europe, and publishes exclusive cable dispatches. It is the only New York evening newspaper that maintains a Special News Bureau in the West and has its own correspondents in all the large cities between New York and San Francisco. It is "the model evening newspaper of America!"

THE MAIL AND EXPRESS employs a competent staff of news gatherers in Washington. The daily dispatches from the national capital are the best printed in any New York newspaper. Capable correspondents are also on duty in Albany, Trenton and Harrisburg, and New England news is given considerable space. A large force of men is employed to report the day's doings on the various exchanges, and the critical departments, such as literature, science, art, music and the drama, are presided over by competent scholars. The healthy, manly sports of the day also receive proper attention.

THE MAIL AND EXPRESS has no superior as an advertising medium. It is bought and read by men and women who have money to spend. Besides being read in all the drawing rooms of Murray Hill and in all the clubs, it is circulated extensively in New Jersey, in Brooklyn, all over Long Island, in all the little towns and villages on the various railroads running out of New York, and it has a large number of subscribers in Washington, at the various State capitals, and in the large cities of the East, West and South, and is dispatched to the distant lands beyond the sea. It will pay, if you have anything to sell, or wish to buy, to make your wares or wants known through THE MAIL AND EXPRESS. It is the paper that YOU cannot afford to be without!

WHY THE ALBANY EXPRESS IS THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM AT THE CAPITAL OF THE EMPIRE STATE.

FIRST—Because it is strictly a Family Newspaper. SECOND—Because it has the Largest Circulation among the buying classes. THIRD—Because it is the Only Republican Morning Paper published in Albany County. FOURTH—Because it is the Leading Newspaper at the State Capital. FIFTH—Because the merchants can rely upon all Business Reports. SIXTH—Because it is the Cheapest and Best Paper published in Albany. SEVENTH—Because it is the Only Republican Morning Paper published between Utica on the West and Hudson on the South, a distance of 135 miles, and, with one exception, between Binghamton on the Southwest and Rouse's Point on the North, a distance of 360 miles; and this vast territory is completely covered by the

ALBANY MORNING EXPRESS.

Advertisers should examine the map of New York State, and see the great number of prosperous towns and villages embraced in the above radius. Special advertising rates for Schools, Hotels and Boarding-houses.

CHAUTAUQUA.

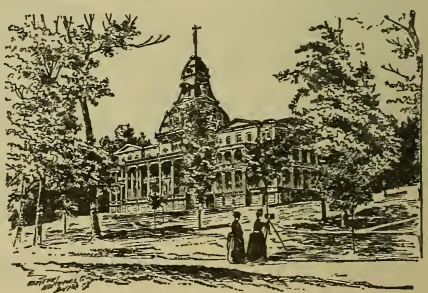

A QUARTER of a million people are closely connected with Chautauqua, a summer city, an ideal community, a center of educational influence. Plato's "Republic," More's "Utopia," Bellamy's "Looking Backward," are dreams. Chautauqua is a reality, great in its achievements, far greater in its possibilities. Chautauqua says to the student, the teacher, the clergyman, the lawyer, to young and old, "Come to these groves, study, listen, develop your bodies, refresh your minds, be broader, wiser, better; true recreation is found not in idleness but in change of occupation." Chautauqua is a city where public functions are carried beyond the usual limit, to provide instruction and amusement free to all citizens alike.

But Chautauqua has more than mid-summer life. To those whose lives are passed in homes and shops, to all who are ambitious, who loathe the joyless monotony of commonplace existence, Chautauqua comes with intelligent plans for systematic self-education, bidding them remember that "education ends only with life itself," and that it is never too late to accomplish something,—the very effort bringing pleasure.

The season of 1890 (July and August) will be especially attractive. The educational departments will be under the care of distinguished professors from the leading colleges and universities. Among many famous speakers may be mentioned:

Dr. H. B. ADAMS, Dr. JAMES M. BUCKLEY, Mr. EDWARD BELLAMY, Hon. W. C. P. BRECKENRIDGE, Dr. J. A. BROADUS, Mr. A. P. BURBANK, Mrs. HELEN CAMPBELL, Rev. RUSSELL H. CONWELL, Mr. W. E. CURTIS, Prof. R. L. CUMNOCK, Prof. MARTIN L. D'OOGE, Dr. RICHARD T. ELY. Principal A. M. FAIRBAIRN of Oxford, Eng., Dr. EMORY J. HAYNES, Mr. ROBARTS HARPER, Col. THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON, Dr. WM. R. HARPER, Dr. ALEXANDER McKENZIE, Bishop JOHN P. NEWMAN, Mr. LELAND POWERS, Mr. THOMAS NELSON PAGE, Mrs. NELLA BROWN POND, Bishop N. S. RULISON, Hon. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, Hon. CHARLES T. SAXTON, Mrs. ABBA GOOLD WOOLSON, Dr. H. L. WAYLAND, Etc.

The music will be under the charge of Dr. H. R. PALMER of New York, Mr. W. H. SHERWOOD, Madame ABBIE CARRINGTON, the SCHUBERT & HARVARD Quartettes, a band and orchestra, etc., will take part in recitals and concerts.

Base-ball, under the charge of Mr. A. A. STAGG, the Yale pitcher, tennis, boating, riding, driving, and other forms of recreation provided by the management. Beautiful illuminations and displays of fireworks.

The HOTEL ATHENÆUM is a summer hotel of the first grade, thoroughly equipped and well kept.

GALENA OIL WORKS LIMITED.

SAFETY, SPEED and ECONOMY are the results of the use of Galena Engine, Coach and Car Oils for the lubrication of locomotives and passenger and freight cars. Scientific and practical tests of the past twenty years have demonstrated the fact that Galena Oils are superior to any other oils in the market. These oils have been adopted as standard railway lubricants by a majority of the leading railways of this country. Galena Oils in winter stand a cold test of ten to fifteen degrees below zero, and will not freeze in the coldest weather. Being made heavy for summer use, they are also adapted to extreme heat, and their use assures entire freedom from hot journals at all times and under all circumstances, except when these are produced by mechanical defects. Their superiority is demonstrated by their exclusive use upon so large a majority of the leading railways of this country. Galena Oils are in use upon three continuous lines of railway from Boston and New York to the Pacific Coast, and upon one continuous line to the City of Mexico; thus demonstrating their adaptability to all climates and all temperatures. As they are entirely free from gum, they are not affected as other oils are when used in sandy and dusty districts. They are superior to lard and other animal oils, and in their use a saving in the wear of brasses, pins and links is effected. There is also a saving in fuel for the reason that a locomotive will haul from two to four cars more to a train load than when lubricated with other oils. Repeated tests have shown as high as 15,000 to 20,000 miles to one oiling with Galena Oil. Having made railway lubrication a special study for many years, both from a practical and scientific point of view, we can offer to our patrons an experience that guarantees them entire satisfaction in every instance.

Testimonials and references will be furnished cheerfully upon request.

STEAMERS TO HONOLULU:

May 3d, May 23d, May 31st, June 20th, June 28th, etc. EXCURSIONS TO THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.—The splendid 3,000 ton Steamers ALAMEDA, AUSTRALIA, MARIPOSA, and ZEALANDIA of this line are so well known from the thousands who have made voyages in them to and from the Sandwich Islands, that a description is almost unnecessary. To those who have not yet had this pleasure, we would simply say that there are no finer specimens of marine architecture afloat. They have the latest and best improvements. The staterooms are fitted with every convenience. The dining rooms, social halls, smoking rooms, etc., in finish and furnishing, are not surpassed by any steamers afloat. To make a trip on one of these steamers is, as the poet Charles Warren Stoddard expresses it, "like drifting towards Paradise on an even keel." The climate of the Sandwich Islands is said to be the pleasantest in the world—never hot and never cold—from 65 deg. to 90 deg. all the year round, with refreshing showers which keep the landscape perpetually green. Excursion Tickets to Honolulu and Return, good for three months, $125. A trip from San Francisco to Honolulu and the Volcano can be made in three weeks; and no more interesting and enjoyable trip is to be found in the world.

1823. 68TH SEASON. 1890.

THE CATSKILL MOUNTAIN HOUSE,

Eight Miles West of the Hudson River and Twelve Miles from the Village of Catskill, N. Y.

(Visitors can be comfortably accommodated from June 1st to 20th, at $2.00 per day.)

OPEN JUNE 20th TO SEPTEMBER 20th.

This well-known Summer Hotel is situated on one of the Eastern ledges of the summit of the Catskill Mountains, 2,250 feet above tide water, and by reason of its peculiarly advantageous location on the Front of the Range, is the only Hotel that commands the famous view of the Hudson Valley which stretches out from the base of the Mountains below, to the Adirondacks in the North, the Green Mountains and Berkshire Hills in the East, and the Highlands in the South, embracing an area of 12,000 square miles, with sixty miles of the Hudson River in the foreground.

THE MOUNTAIN HOUSE PARK

has a valley frontage of over three miles in extent, and consists of 3,000 acres, or about five square miles of magnificent forests and farming lands, traversed in all directions by many miles of carriage roads and paths leading to various noted places of interest.

The Crest, Newman's Ledge, Bears' Den and Prospect Rock on North Mountain, and Eagle Rock and Palenville Overlook on South Mountain, from which the grandest views of the region are obtained, are included in the property. It also includes within its boundaries NORTH AND SOUTH LAKES, both plentifully stocked with various kinds of fish and well supplied with boats.

The Principal Drives include Kaaterskill Falls, Haine's Falls, Kaaterskill Clove, Palenville, Tannersville and Hunter Village.

The atmosphere is delightful, invigorating and pure, the great elevation and surrounding forests rendering it absolutely free from Malaria. It affords relief to sufferers from Chills and Fever, Asthma, Hay Fever, Loss of Appetite, and General Debility.

The Temperature is always Fifteen to Twenty Degrees lower than at Catskill Village, New York City or Philadelphia.

The location and surroundings are in all respects the most desirable in the entire range of the Catskills; and no Hotel similarly situated is so easy of access or so near in time to New York City. As a resort for transient visitors to the Mountains it has many and great attractions over other localities.

Accessible by Following Routes, via Catskill.

TO CATSKILL:—New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, West Shore Railroad, Hudson River Day Line, Catskill Night Line. Catskill Mountain Railway to Mountain House Station, and stage to the Hotel. Stage fare, $1.25. Trunks extra.

THE NEW HOTEL AMPERSAND is fitted up with the most comfortable and modern conveniences, including baths, steam heat, gas, electric bells, elevator, etc. Cuisine and service of the highest standard of excellence. Fresh vegetables and milk from the farm adjoining the house. Beautifully located on the Lower Saranac Lake, and is the starting point for all resorts and camping spots in the woods. Lake trolling for trout during the Spring and Summer months unexcelled. Good brook trout fishing in adjacent streams and lakes.

Lower Saranac Lake contains 33 islands, and is the acknowledged "Queen of Lakes." Special facilities offered for safe boating, and only reliable guides are recommended.

Ampersand four-horse Concord coach meets all trains at Saranac Lake Station on the Chateaugay Railroad; distance one mile from hotel.

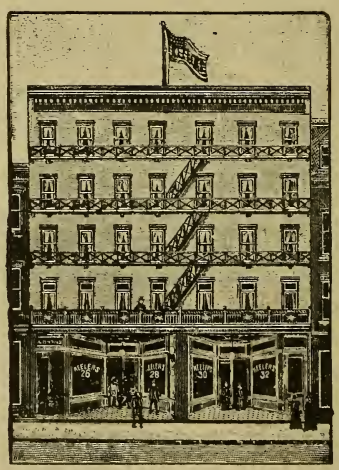

Take the New York Central R. R. at Forty-second Street, N. Y., or the Hudson River Steamers, which make direct connections with D. & H. R. R at Albany. Sleeping and Parlor Cars on all trains.

The "AMPERSAND" offers special advantages as a winter resort, the second very successful winter season having just been completed.

WAWBEEK LODGE, ADIRONDACKS.

Latest among the new hotels in the Adirondacks is the Wawbeek Lodge, situated at the well-known Sweeny Carry on the west shore of the Upper Saranac Lake. This lake is considered one of the most beautiful in the region, none surpass it in charming combination of Lake and Mountain Scenery. The Wawbeek, 100 feet above the level of the lake, commands one of the most beautiful views in the Adirondacks. The house is entirely new, built this season, and is one of the best finished and appointed hotels in this region. The public rooms are spacious, and the sleeping rooms large and well lighted, and arranged so that most all look on the lake. No pains have been spared to make it comfortable in every respect. Water is supplied from a pure spring and running brook. Tents will be placed within easy reach of the hotel for those desiring out-door life. A physician will be in attendance. Telegraph and Post-office in the house.

The Wawbeek may be reached via N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. to Albany, and D. & H., and Chateaugay R. R. to Saranac Lake, or via N. Y. C. and R., W. & O. R. R. to Norwood, and per N. A. R. R. to Tupper Lake, and thence by stage. Term $3.50 per day; special arrangement per week. For further particulars please address, LAKE GEORGE. SEASON 1890.

THE SAGAMORE.

GREEN ISLAND, BOLTON, ON LAKE GEORGE

WARREN COUNTY, N. Y.

REGULAR OPENING JUNE 23d.

Special Rates from June 1st to June 23d.

Lake George, with its crystal waters, island gems, rugged mountains and forests, can be best seen in this immediate vicinity.

TERMS — Four dollars per day ; seventeen fifty to twenty-five dollars per week for single rooms. Circulars sent upon application.

ACCESS — The Sagamore can be reached by the New York Central & Hudson River and West Shore railroads, the steamers of the People's Line from New York to Albany, or the Citizens' Line from New York to Troy, thence by the Delaware & Hudson Railroad to Lake George. Alighting at Caldwell the tourist steps aboard the Horicon or Ticonderoga, and is brought to the steamboat dock in front of the hotel.

THE SAGAMORE is the handsomest summer resort hotel building in the United States. It consists of many handsome structures built on a succession of terraces, is surrounded with balconies, public and private. Every room in the house has a view of the lake. Elegant suites of rooms, hot and cold baths, toilet rooms, electric bells, elevators, no long flights of stairs to climb.

A Perfect and Thorough System of Drainage. No Malaria. No Hay Fever. No Mosquitoes. Pure Mountain Air. Pure Spring Water.

Green Island is located between Northwest Bay and Bolton. The island comprises about seventy acres, is handsomely laid out in winding forests walks and drives, rustic seats and beautiful summer houses. A broad walk leads to the northern terminus of the island (nearly a mile away), terminating at a cosy summer house.

Beautiful drives and picturesque mountain walks on main land. The best of protection against fire. A complete livery supplied with safe horses and tally-ho coaches.

AMUSEMENTS — Billiards and bowling within, and croquet, tennis, polo and archery without. Boating, sailing, a fleet of row boats and steam launches. A large music and dancing hall. Dancing every evening.

Western Union telegraph and post-office in the hotel. Circulars and plans of rooms sent upon application. Address

AUDITORIUM HOTEL,

Michigan Avenue and Congress Street,

CHICAGO.

THE most massive hotel structure in the world, built entirely of stone and iron, ten stories high, and having frontages east, south and west aggregating 710 feet, on three streets. This building is absolutely fire-proof, affording perfect safety to its occupants under all circumstances. The dining-room is located on the tenth floor, and is the most magnificent apartment ever devoted to this purpose. In all its features, including the furnishings and fittings in every department, the Auditorium Hotel is without a superior anywhere in the world. The location, on Michigan Avenue, Congress Street and Wabash Avenue, at the beginning of the finest drive in this country, overlooking Lake Michigan and park, and at the same time within four blocks of the Post-Office and business center, makes it positively unrivalled in this respect by any hotel that can be named. The Auditorium Hotel is conducted upon both the American and European plans, with a large and commodious restaurant on the ground floor.
